Cromwell and Mussolini.
Goodbye, Bob.
He Won't Talk.
17,000 New Laws.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW compares Mussolini to the great Oliver Cromwell, and says British mockery of Mussolini is inspired by hypocricy and fear.

The British, according to Shaw, "did not dare call Mussolini's bluff at Corfu, and are clearly afraid of him."

If Mussolini is like Cromwell, there is good reason to be afraid of him. Cromwell being the only great soldier of semi-modern times that never lost a battle.

THE "bob" is going out. Those that have money abandon the bob because it is getting too common. Working girls that haven't much money give up the bob because it costs too much, takes too much time.

Women ought to wear both hair and skirts short, without being foolish about either, and will do so eventually. They ought to cut their skirts off below the knee, not above; cut their hair sensibly, so that a haircut might last a month at least, with a nice ribbon or old-fashioned round comb to hold it back. That's how women will arrange their hair and skirts some day, and they will look pretty and sensible.

C. W. NOE, 22 years old, ended his medical studies at the University of Wisconsin by committing suicide and promised to talk from the grave to a fraternity friend at 12 o'clock Monday and again next Friday.

He will not talk from the grave. Our talking is done here. What we do after we leave, we don't yet know, except as faith answers our questions. The young man should have used all of this life before moving on to another. No matter how dismal things may be today you never can be sure that they won't improve.

SENATOR BORAH says we made too many laws. This country will be "a republic in name, and a bureaucracy in fact," if we don't check the wholesale lawmaking machine.

Not all the laws are made in Washington. Forty-eight legislatures are busy. The new laws suggested here and there number about 17,000, a fantastic figure.

However, civilization itself, to say nothing of this glorious republic, is an experiment, in its infancy. Children try many things; all trying is useful. Even if they burn their fingers, that's useful. It teaches them to avoid fire.

SOME industrial stocks going down, railroad stocks climbing to new high prices was the program yesterday on the stock exchange. Somebody bought and sold nearly 2,000,000 shares.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has put in few words the disagreement between this country and Mexico. We respect property rights of Mexicans here, and don't pass retroactive laws, confiscating United States property legally acquired by Mexican citizens. The president asks, "shall Mexico be allowed

ACCEPT RECORD DAMAGE CLAIM UNDER CROSS PETITION ACT

Standard Porcelain Company, Leetonia, Files Action.

JURY IS CALLED

Court Fight Aftermath of Paper Products Firm's Move.

Establishing a precedent in East Liverpool's municipal court, a claim for $10,000 damages was on file today, as a result of a cross petition by the Standard Porcelain company, of Leetonia, formerly of East Liverpool in a suit instituted by the American Paper Products company.

Allege Stocks Were Damaged.

The paper products company, through the law firm of Brookes & Thompson, recently sued the porcelain company for $175, alleged to be due as rent for a factory, which was operated in a part of the old Brown plant at the corner of Third and Walnut streets. An additional $25 was asked for the removal of rubbish and other material left when the company quit operations in East Liverpool last summer and moved to Leetonia.

The suit was to have been heard this week, but was postponed when the defendant filed a cross petition.

The porcelain company charges that while they were still occupying the plant, the wall and roof were removed and that as a result of a heavy rain storm stocks were badly damaged. It is also alleged that the gas to the plant was shut off, water pipes removed, electric and light and power and telephone lines were cut. A large quantity of finished products, clays and other raw materials are declared to have been rendered a total loss when the defendant company began the razing of the building.

Twelve Jurors to Hear Case.

The porcelain company is represented by Attorneys Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool; George T. Farrell, Lisbon, and Dever Grappy, Leetonia.

The city court ordinarily has jurisdiction in damage claims of not to exceed $1,500, but in the event of a cross petition the court can pass judgment upon larger sums.

Judge Hanley announced that the case would be heard by a jury of 12 persons.

"Peaches" Nervous As She Resumes Witness Stand

Browning's 16-year-old Wife Tells of Contract With Syndicate for Stories in Newspaper.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

Clad in a blue silk dress and a blue cloche hat which set off her blonde hair and complexion becomingly, "Peaches" took the stand at 10:04 a. m. She wore a little ball watch suspended from her neck on a thin, gold chain.

"Peaches" seemed nervous as she took her place in the witness box. She had been on the stand for four hours yesterday and left it exhausted. She had painted Browning as a man of depraved tastes, and that his various idiosyncracies finally caused her nerves to break and she had to leave him.

Judge John E. Mack of Browning's counsel began his cross-examination.

Q. You spoke of a contract with a syndicate for stories printed about you. Is this the story (handing her a picture of a tabloid paper)? Is that your signature under the story "Why I Left Daddy Browning?"

While "Peaches" was identifying the newspaper stories, her mother, Mrs. Carolyn Heenan, came over to the witness stand and took a seat at her daughter's elbow. Mrs. Heenan said: "I want to be near Babe in case she breaks down again."

Browning was dressed immaculately in a blue suit and conspicuous blue and gold tie.

Mack repeatedly asked "Peaches" if this and that picture had been posed for "pursuant to your contract."

"Yes; it was," "Peaches" reiterated.

SACASA SAYS MARINES AROUSE HOSTILITY IN SUPPORTING DIAZ ARMY

While Keeping Eye on Situation Below Rio Grande, American Government Continues Its Neutral Stand in Chinese Civil War in Which Military Movements Near Hangchow are Watched.

BATTLE ON STUPENDOUS SCALE WILL SEAL FATE OF SHANGHAI

British and Japanese Already Have Taken Steps Toward Defense of International City by Force of Arms, as Uncle Sam Stands by to Protect Lives and Property, But Hesitates to Join With Foreign Forces.

By JOHN PAGE.

Copyright, 1927, By International News Service.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 26.—The danger of a clash between United States marines and liberal troops was pointed out today by Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, head of the liberal government.

Dr. Sacasa deplored the situation, but charged that the action of the marines in constantly extending neutral zones had aroused hostility. He declared that the Diaz government at Managua could not stand without American support and disclaimed any anti-American feeling on his own part.

"Hostility has been aroused by the action of the United States marines in following the constitutionalists and declaring neutral all the cities wrested from the Diazista army," said Dr. Sacasa.

"Such acts are making Nicaragua desperate. The situation is bad and is increasing in gravity. Creation of these neutral zones is robbing us of the places captured by us through force of arms."

Sacasa Will "Carry On."

Dr. Sacasa expressed the determination to carry on in spite of all difficulties. He added:

"I am convinced that the Diaz government would quickly fall should the American government withdraw its support and resume an attitude of neutrality."

Dr. Sacasa, after denying any anti Americanism referred to the United States, as his "second mother country."

"That is where I was educated," continued the liberal chief. "That is where I became imbued with liberalism."

Chinese Situation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The United States will continue its neutral stand in the Chinese civil war, it was strongly emphasized at the stat department today. But notwithstanding this attitude the government is intensely interested in the movement of two great Chinese armies near Hangchow, where a battle on a stupendous scale that will seal the fate of Shanghai is momentarily expected between northern troops under Chang Tso-Lin and Cantonese forces under Chang-Kai-Shek.

It has become obvious that this government's hope of averting a clash at Shanghai depends upon the outcome of the impending battle at Hangchow. Should Chang-Tso-Lin be defeated the

Salem Teacher's Estate Bequeathed To Church Society

Entire estate of the late Miss Martha H. Justice, teacher in the Salem schools for approximately 37 years, after the purchase of a headstone for the family lot in Mt. Hope cemetery, Salem, is made, is to be bequeathed to the "Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church," according to the will which was filed for probate at Lisbon today.

The value of the estate was not given. The will was dated January 1, 1927 less than two weeks previous to the death of the deceased, which occurred on January 13. Her next of kin are seven cousins.

Britain Sponsors Peace Proposals In Chinese War

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The British government, through Charles L. S. T. O'Malley, has made definite proposals to the Cantonese leaders which give basis for a belief that a satisfactory settlement of the Chinese difficulties will be reached shortly, it was officially announced today.

The statement did not disclose the nature of the proposals made by Great Britain, but pointed out that discussions still continue at Hankow and that the tests of the willingness of the Cantonese to accept a reasonable settlement is now being made.

VOTE LAND LAW ARBITRATION

Senate Calls Upon President to Act in Mexican Situation.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—President Coolidge had before him today the fact that the senate unanimously favors arbitrating the land law controversy with Mexico.

The vote on the Robinson resolution, advising the president to peacefully settle the dispute, afforded one of the rare occasions when the senate has solidly been in favor of something. The vote was 79 to 0. Republicans, Democrats, Insurgents, Protestants and Catholics, joined in registering an expression against armed conflict.

While there is nothing mandatory in the senate's action, as applied to the Coolidge-Kellogg policy, the unanimity with which the senate acted is expected to be not without effect in determining the future steps in administration policy.

President Coolidge is expected to take cognizance of the senate's action, even though he considers the resolution merely an advisory notice of senate opinion. This cognizance will be expressed, it is anticipated, either by means of a message to congress, similar in purport and expression to that which he recently sent concerning

NON-STOP FLIGHT TO HONOLULU IN NEW PLANE MAY BE PRELUDE TO SPANNING PACIFIC IN FEW DAYS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 26.—Spanning the entire breadth of the Pacific ocean in a few days is a new project of American aviators. From California to Hong Kong, China, with several—but not many—intermediate stops, a giant monoplane may soon wing its way.

All this has developed from plans made for a non-stop flight from San Diego to Honolulu. This has been scheduled for early in March, with Lieut. W. B. Wallace of the Marines' flying corps, and Lee Schoenhair, former army aviator, piloting a huge Fokker monoplane, now being constructed at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

Unbroken Stretch of Water.

A flight from California to Manila, in the Philippines, and Hong Kong, China, will follow in all probability, if the Honolulu jump is successful, military and naval aviators say.

Such a flight would be epoch-making. It would place China within four or five days of America.

The jump to Honolulu is looked upon as the chief hazard, for the ocean stretches 2,200 miles between San Diego and Diamond Head, in the Hawaiian islands—the longest single stretch of water between land ends on a route around the world's waterways.

The plane to be used in the Honolulu flight—larger than the one in which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole—will be tested during February. It will be flown across the continent by way of Washington and Detroit.

Speed 100 Miles an Hour.

"With our plane," says Schoenhair, "we expect to carry a disposable load of 6,800 pounds and, at the start, 950 gallons of gasoline, with a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour. Thus we should reach Honolulu in less than 24 hours."

No gear for floating the plane on the bosom of the Pacific ocean which saved Com. John Rodgers when his plane fell near Honolulu last year, will adorn the Schoenhair plane. Only a radio outfit will be available to call in a hurry for help.

As for cruising range, the Fokker will have safety margin of 1,400 miles more than the San Diego-Honolulu distance and will be capable of remaining in the air approximately 40 hours.

The race for Honolulu will be made under the racing rules of the National Aeronautical Association and the Federation Aeronautique International in an endeavor to smash the present world's record of 1,841 miles, established by the late Com. Rodgers' seaplane from San Francisco to a point near Honolulu.

However, the fact that the aviators will use a plane devoid of sea landing

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 26.—The danger of a clash between United States marines and liberal troops was pointed out today by Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, head of the liberal government.

Dr. Sacasa deplored the situation, but charged that the action of the marines in constantly extending neutral zones had aroused hostility. He declared that the Diaz government at Managua could not stand without American support and disclaimed any anti-American feeling on his own part.

"Hostility has been aroused by the action of the United States marines in following the constitutionalists and declaring neutral all the cities wrested from the Diazista army," said Dr. Sacasa.

"Such acts are making Nicaragua desperate. The situation is bad and is increasing in gravity. Creation of these neutral zones is robbing us of the places captured by us through force of arms."

Sacasa Will "Carry On."

Dr. Sacasa expressed the determination to carry on in spite of all difficulties. He added:

"I am convinced that the Diaz government would quickly fall should the American government withdraw its support and resume an attitude of neutrality."

Dr. Sacasa, after denying any anti Americanism referred to the United States, as his "second mother country."

Chinese Situation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The United States will continue its neutral stand in the Chinese civil war, it was strongly emphasized at the stat department today. But notwithstanding this attitude the government is intensely interested in the movement of two great Chinese armies near Hangchow, where a battle on a stupendous scale that will seal the fate of Shanghai is momentarily expected between northern troops under Chang Tso-Lin and Cantonese forces under Chang-Kai-Shek.

It has become obvious that this government's hope of averting a clash at Shanghai depends upon the outcome of the impending battle at Hangchow. Should Chang-Tso-Lin be defeated the

Salem Teacher's Estate Bequeathed To Church Society

Entire estate of the late Miss Martha H. Justice, teacher in the Salem schools for approximately 37 years, after the purchase of a headstone for the family lot in Mt. Hope cemetery, Salem, is made, is to be bequeathed to the "Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church," according to the will which was filed for probate at Lisbon today.

The value of the estate was not given. The will was dated January 1, 1927 less than two weeks previous to the death of the deceased, which occurred on January 13. Her next of kin are seven cousins.

Britain Sponsors Peace Proposals In Chinese War

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The British government, through Charles L. S. T. O'Malley, has made definite proposals to the Cantonese leaders which give basis for a belief that a satisfactory settlement of the Chinese difficulties will be reached shortly, it was officially announced today.

The statement did not disclose the nature of the proposals made by Great Britain, but pointed out that discussions still continue at Hankow and that the tests of the willingness of the Cantonese to accept a reasonable settlement is now being made.

VOTE LAND LAW ARBITRATION

Senate Calls Upon President to Act in Mexican Situation.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—President Coolidge had before him today the fact that the senate unanimously favors arbitrating the land law controversy with Mexico.

The vote on the Robinson resolution, advising the president to peacefully settle the dispute, afforded one of the rare occasions when the senate has solidly been in favor of something. The vote was 79 to 0. Republicans, Democrats, Insurgents, Protestants and Catholics, joined in registering an expression against armed conflict.

While there is nothing mandatory in the senate's action, as applied to the Coolidge-Kellogg policy, the unanimity with which the senate acted is expected to be not without effect in determining the future steps in administration policy.

President Coolidge is expected to take cognizance of the senate's action, even though he considers the resolution merely an advisory notice of senate opinion. This cognizance will be expressed, it is anticipated, either by means of a message to congress, similar in purport and expression to that which he recently sent concerning

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 26.—Spanning the entire breadth of the Pacific ocean in a few days is a new project of American aviators. From California to Hong Kong, China, with several—but not many—intermediate stops, a giant monoplane may soon wing its way.

All this has developed from plans made for a non-stop flight from San Diego to Honolulu. This has been scheduled for early in March, with Lieut. W. B. Wallace of the Marines' flying corps, and Lee Schoenhair, former army aviator, piloting a huge Fokker monoplane, now being constructed at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

Unbroken Stretch of Water.

A flight from California to Manila, in the Philippines, and Hong Kong, China, will follow in all probability, if the Honolulu jump is successful, military and naval aviators say.

Such a flight would be epoch-making. It would place China within four or five days of America.

The jump to Honolulu is looked upon as the chief hazard, for the ocean stretches 2,200 miles between San Diego and Diamond Head, in the Hawaiian islands—the longest single stretch of water between land ends on a route around the world's waterways.

The plane to be used in the Honolulu flight—larger than the one in which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole—will be tested during February. It will be flown across the continent by way of Washington and Detroit.

Speed 100 Miles an Hour.

"With our plane," says Schoenhair, "we expect to carry a disposable load of 6,800 pounds and, at the start, 950 gallons of gasoline, with a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour. Thus we should reach Honolulu in less than 24 hours."

No gear for floating the plane on the bosom of the Pacific ocean which saved Com. John Rodgers when his plane fell near Honolulu last year, will adorn the Schoenhair plane. Only a radio outfit will be available to call in a hurry for help.

As for cruising range, the Fokker will have safety margin of 1,400 miles more than the San Diego-Honolulu distance and will be capable of remaining in the air approximately 40 hours.

The race for Honolulu will be made under the racing rules of the National Aeronautical Association and the Federation Aeronautique International in an endeavor to smash the present world's record of 1,841 miles, established by the late Com. Rodgers' seaplane from San Francisco to a point near Honolulu.

However, the fact that the aviators will use a plane devoid of sea landing

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

My meditations were interrupted by the girl at my side.

"Mr. Quexter," she said, "you're not very entertaining, are you?"

"I beg your pardon," I said politely. "But conversation seems in the circumstances a little difficult."

"Of course," she exclaimed. "You don't even know yet who I am. My name is Patience, Patience Smith."

"An Englishwoman?"

"If you like," she replied.

"Well," said I, "what shall we talk about?"

"Anything you please," she said. "Let me see. You're a banker, Mr. Quexter? Suppose we talk about money, though I'm afraid it's not one of my subjects. I simply love money and that's nearly all I can say about it—except, of course, that it's the only thing that has any value at all in these days."

"What would you do for money?" I asked her, putting my thought brutally and without premeditation.

"Almost anything," she lightly replied; "so long as it wasn't simply too tedious—like marrying a rich man or keeping a bonnet shop. Let's talk about something else. You live in Paris, Mr. Quexter. Tell me about the latest plays."

To my surprise we were soon deep in a discussion of the modern theater, and I found that her knowledge was amazing. She knew well, not merely the playwrights well known to the educated public of Paris, London and New York—Ibsen, Brieux, Galsworthy, Shaw and the rest but the latest products of the continental stage. She talked to me of Pirandello, of the productions of Lugne Poe, of Zimmer, and Pitoeff. Of the past generation she admired especially the German Wedekind, the Austrian Schnitzler, and the Russian Tchekoff. Of the English stage she was mostly contemptuous.

I forgot the passage of time and was deep in a defense of Galsworthy, on whom she was unusually severe, when the car pulled up by the side of a moss-banked stream, and Baldasarre, the Japanese and the chauffeur unpacked a hamper, which proved to contain a most excellent light luncheon.

I lunched with Miss Smith, a little aside from the others. We were served by the Japanese who had been sitting in front of me in the car, and I noted that Marce and the chauffeur made no attempt to share our meal, but stayed apart, though they both kept me under careful observation.

It was difficult, over the informal and pleasant meal, prisoner as I was, and on the way to an unknown fate, to be really alarmed or tragical. I suppose, if the truth were told, I was so closely intrigued by my companion that I had little attention to spare for my peculiar situation. She was certainly the most stimulating person I had ever encountered. Moreover, she was utterably incomprehensible. Her moods seemed entirely inconsequent. Everything about her was contradictory. I could have sworn she had moved among people of leisure and authority. Nevertheless, she was the confederate of criminals and only a couple of hours ago she had forcibly drugged me.

I caught her looking at me oddly at times, and in place of the air of distant amusement she had first maintained, she was becoming frankly curious. After several unsuccessful efforts to entrap me into personal confidences, she began to question me directly.

"You are American," she said, "but you know England very well, and Paris, too."

By this time I was getting quite used to her sudden changes.

Her eyes ran lightly over me, and something in their expression made me feel absurdly self-conscious.

"You are a big man, Mr. Quexter."

"Six feet two," I said, as though answering an official examiner.

"I like big men," she said simply. She might have said in just that tone of voice that she liked Chopin or mayonnaise.

"Do you play cards?" she added, almost in the same breath.

"Sometimes," I acknowledged.

"Picquet?" she queried.

"Yes."

"I adore Picquet. Let's play a hand while they're packing up."

She spoke to the chauffeur, who went across to the car and returned with a pack of cards. A flat boulder served us for a table, and a moment later I was dealing the first hand.

"Four hands, I think," she said, "and double the first and last. That's the way I usually play."

"All right," I answered. "It's your major."

We played two games, and she beat me each time. She was certainly a good player.

After the second game, Baldassare came up and, bowing with clumsy deference, suggested that we should be moving. My companion nodded and stood up.

"In a moment," she said. "Go and start the car."

I picked up the pack and reshuffled it, putting into it the low cards which we had discarded when we had started to play, so that it included the whole number of fifty-two.

The girl had risen and stood beside me.

"Do you know any card tricks?" she asked.

"Only one," I replied, "and your pack would not be much good to you after that."

"Show it to me,' 'she insisted.

"If you will," I answered.

Taking the full pack, I got a good grip on it with both hands, and with a single jerk tore it across. It is an old trick, and I have often done it to amuse my friends. It requires more skill than strength, but simple as it was it appeared to impress my companion.

As the cards ripped, she gave a little catch of the breath, and her eyes were frankly admiring.

"You are certainly strong,' she said.

We walked back to the car and were soon on our way again. My companion now seemed disinclined to talk. Accordingly I sat back and watched the scenery as it flowed past.

We were traversing a high tableland bounded by a low line of crags in the distance. It was still a beautiful day, and the wind of the previous evening had entirely fallen. I tried, I remember, to memorize the route as we rushed along, but this proved a difficult task. We did not go through many villages, and the few that we did pass, unlike those in France, had no placards announcing their names. I noticed that we were turning gradually in a long left-handed curve, and round a bend of the road we found curselves running at the edge of a crest. The ground sloped fairly steeply away on our right, and I could look across a wide valley with a large city in the middle distance.

"What is that place?" I said idly to my companion.

"That is the land of lost content,
You see it shining plain,
The happy highways where you went,
And may not go again."

she parodied with a mocking laugh.

I did not answer, but gazed at the town, striving to note some landmark by which I could recognize it. A tall church on a winding river were all that I could ditinguish with any clearness, and soon a belt of firs hid it again from view.

Half an hour later we passed through a small village and turned to the right up a long moss-grown carriage drive. A placard bore the inscription in French and German, "Dr. Kuntz's Private Home, Visiting Hours 2-5 Tuesdays."

We ascended the drive and stopped beside a large white house, built of stone, in a modern Swiss style, faintly reminiscent of Germany.

"At last," said Patience. "Will you come with me, Mr. Quexter?"

I got out of the car, Marce and the Japanese being obviously ready to deal with me promptly if I should hesitate.

The door was opened by a square-headed impassive servant in black livery, his hair cut en brosse—a very obvious German Swiss. We passed into a cool white hall, empty save for two low benches each side of the wall; and a small china vase containing a single spray of yellow broom. We crossed the hall in the wake of the butler.

Radium Makes Old Feel Young

Doctors Find New Tablet Form - ARIUM - Banishes Signs of Age

When that great French woman Scientist, Madame Curie, first startled the entire world by the discovery of Radium and its great curative powers, she may have had no idea of how extensively it might one day be used internally for the rejuvenation of men and women. Now, however, the development by Science of a simple, inexpensive means of administering true Radium in the highly concentrated form called ARIUM, immediately puts this miraculous power within easy reach.

To millions it may mean the banishing of disease and signs of old age—the rebuilding of sturdy, vigorous health and the prolonging of life by many, many years.

If you long for the return of youthful vigor, freedom from pains, aches and disease—if you want to literally take a new lease on life, you owe it to yourself to get a box of ARIUM from the nearest druggist now—start its use at once, and if you are not amazed and overjoyed at what happens in your own case, go back and get your deposit without trouble or question. Probably no such offer has ever before been made by anyone, but scientists are agreed that there has never before been such a product as ARIUM.

Radium Makes Old Feel Young

Doctors Find New Tablet Form - ARIUM - Banishes Signs of Age

When that great French woman Scientist, Madame Curie, first startled the entire world by the discovery of Radium and its great curative powers, she may have had no idea of how extensively it might one day be used internally for the rejuvenation of men and women. Now, however, the development by Science of a simple, inexpensive means of administering true Radium in the highly concentrated form called ARIUM, immediately puts this miraculous power within easy reach.

To millions it may mean the banishing of disease and signs of old age—the rebuilding of sturdy, vigorous health and the prolonging of life by many, many years.

If you long for the return of youthful vigor, freedom from pains, aches and disease—if you want to literally take a new lease on life, you owe it to yourself to get a box of ARIUM from the nearest druggist now—start its use at once, and if you are not amazed and overjoyed at what happens in your own case, go back and get your deposit without trouble or question. Probably no such offer has ever before been made by anyone, but scientists are agreed that there has never before been such a product as ARIUM.

MARION DAVIES IN NEW FILM

"Lights of Old Broadway" Coming to Ceramic.

Register another directorial success for Monta Bell!

This sensational young director has turned out the best film of his short career in Marion Davies' "Lights of Old Broadway," a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which soon will be seen at the Ceramic theatre.

It was not until about a year ago that the picture-goer first heard of young Bell. With the release of "Broadway After Dark" exhibitors, producers and film fans began to inquire who the director was.

The fact is he was a former publicity man of Charlie Chaplin that Harry Rapf saw as a potential film director and gave him a chance. The chance was all he needed and Bell was well on his way to success with the release of hs first picture.

Before coming to Hollywood he was the editor of a Washington, D. C., daily newspaper and had been identified with several syndicates that specialized in featured stories. In that capacity he learned what constitutes a successful story.

When he came to Hollywood with Chaplin he was given a chance to assist in the making of "A Woman of Paris" and he made such brilliant suggestions that many critics gave him a large part of the credit for the success of the film.

Then Rapf, who is an associate executive of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, gave him a chance at directing and put up the money out of his own pocket. With the release of the picture he was signed by the studio to direct a number of other films.

He directed "The Snob," "Lady of the Night" and "Pretty Ladies," and will direct more Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures in the future. Bell attributes his success as a director to his experience as a newspaper man and his ability to cut loose from red tape and film traditions.

"The Lights of Old Broadway" is Carey Wilson's screen version of Laurence Syre's stage success, "The Merry Wives of Gotham." The cast includes, besides Marion Davies, Conrad Nagel, Charles McHugh, Eleanor Lawson, Frank Currier, Julia Swayne Gordon, Mathew Betz, Wilbur Higby and George K. Arthur.

There is a sound therapeutic reason why Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds is especially suited to the needs of elderly people.

Because it contains no chloroform, no opiates to cause constipation (that bugbear of advancing years) and to dry up the natural, necessary secretions.

Mildly laxative, wonderfully soothing and healing to the irritated area, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a fine dependable family medicine for all coughs and throat irritations, lingering "flu" coughs and disturbing night coughs.

The Hague Opium Agreement

A number of years before the unsuccessful opium conferences at Geneva in 1924-5, there had been an international meeting at The Hague and an agreement upon a certain procedure. Article 9 of that agreement, to which the United States was a party, pledged the signers "to limit the manufacture, sale and use of morphine, cocaine and their respective salts to medical and legitimate uses only."

The United States has done a good deal toward carrying out that plan. But complete success of its work is made impossible by the failure of other countries to do their part. Our government believes that only a small part of the drugs manufactured here is diverted to illicit channels, yet the situation remains very bad because of the difficulty of keeping out smuggled narcotic drugs, readily obtained for that trade in other countries.

Rather shrewdly, but quite politely, this government addresses a diplomatic note to all the other nations signatory to the Hague Opium Convention of 1912, telling them of its own efforts, of the difficulties it has encountered and of the outside influences beyond its control. It asks if the other governments won't also make a frank statement of the existing situation in their countries, telling what they have done and what they are willing to do, even asking suggestions as to whether they think there is anything more that we can do.

The conferences at Geneva failed. Here is a real agreement which was excellent in itself, though never carried out. Why not, says Uncle Sam, make use of this old agreement right now to correct some of the more obvious evils of the narcotic drug trade? Then, maybe, other steps can be taken later on.

Child Labor In The States

When the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution was up for ratification in the state legislatures, one of the chief arguments successfully used against it was the one that child labor regulation was a state matter and should and would be taken care of by the states.

Friends of child labor regulation, therefore, have been interested in checking up on the existing conditions in the states. A list of the facts of child labor in this country as they existed in August, 1926, has been published by the National Child Labor Committee.

At that time seven states did not require school attendance after the age of 14; nine states permitted the employment of children of 14 without evidence of ability to read; 18 states did not require certificates of physical fitness signed by an authorized physician for employment of any child under 16 years; in 12 states it was not unlawful to work children under 16 from nine to 11 hours a day; in 35 states is was not unlawful to employ children at 14 to work on scaffolding; 28 states did not prohibit children of 14 from working around explosives; 22 states permitted children at 14 to run elevators; 33 states allowed children from 14 to 16 to work on railroads; 17 states permitted children from 14 to 16 to oil, wipe and clean machinery in motion.

Anyone who regards those conditions as unsatisfactory should be interested enough to find out where his own state stands in the list. If its record is bad, the news should be spread, citizens should be interested and the legislature should be made to correct the situation.

Bringing History To Life

Another building has been added to the group of historical edifices at Sudbury, Mass., where Henry Ford is re-creating an early American community. This latest acquisition is the old school house once attended by the Mary whose little lamb followed her to school one day with such enlivening results.

The building was brought to Sudbury from Sterling. Some of the original stones of the foundation have been used. The interior has been reconstructed, following the original as closely as possible. It is to be used as a school, with a good teacher, up-to-date curriculum and pupils from the neighborhood. It is at the same time a happy preservation of a typical New England school house of the early days.

The Sudbury community is gradually becoming a most charming museum of early Americana. Instead of collecting antiques, constructing models and reproductions to be put in some city museum, Mr. Ford is making his "museum" a living thing, placed in the natural setting of the Massachusetts countryside. The Wayside Inn, beautifully restored, filled with authentic antiques, rich in historical suggestion, is a delight to every patriot who visits it. The caretakers and guides there are more intelligent, interested, well-informed than in many of the other historical shrines of New England.

It would be a fine thing if similar restorations could be made in other parts of the country. America has grown and prospered so fast that it has thrust aside and lost forever a good many things worthy of preservation.

The feminist movement seems to have been diverted into a weight-reduction campaign.

Every time there's an international crisis, we all learn a little more geography.

Grandma Advises The Flapper Daughter— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Mid-Victorians who are constantly kept gasping at the social gaucheries of this ill-bred metropolis are now observing the abortive taste of diners out. New York is seated on swivel stools and gulping food at lunch counters.

The stool counter lunch—known in Texas as 'riding the pony'—no longer caters to a clientele of chauffeurs and truck drivers. The new trade glides up in softly purring limousines wearing decollete gowns and silk hats quite unabashed.

Just as the penny arcade flowered into the symphony orchestraed million dollar movie palace so has the hole-in-the-wall dirty spoon restaurant become a gaudy entablature to Epicurean desires. Snug fortunes are spent to floss them up.

Such clumsily painted signs as "Eddie's Place," "Eats" and "Sam's Stand" have vanished. In their stead are highly polished brass tablets reading: "The Cock Tavern," "Ye Olde Chop Inn" and such. The decorative idea strive to be quaint.

In the windows are huge open fire places of cobble stone and oyster shell. Meat slowly sizzles on glowing spits. From nickle plated hooks alongside hang pink hams studded with cloves, dripping roasts, smoking lamb legs and skinned little pigs with bright red apples in their mouths.

A bluff looking white aproned attendant in chef's cap is on hand to carve and saw off selections. The counters are of rich brown mahogany and the paintings are Old King Coleish. The stools are cushioned and have slight nickle plated backs.

Draft near beer is served in sweating stone mugs. The food is robust and the sort shunned by the vegetarian. How long the sudden craze will last is at present problematical but just now all the quaint little places are packed to suffocation.

The waffle shop idea burgeoned for awhile with black mammies in ginghams and turbaned with red kerchiefs, turning the griddles in expansive windows. They looked inviting but few want waffles in warm weather and the season was too short for big profits.

Night club tables may now be secured through agency reservations. As a rule a night club, through sad experience, pays about as much attention to advance reservations as a society mother to her children. Too often customers make reservations, have two more and go some place else or to bed. At the new agency one pays the couvert charge in advance and thus is assured of a desirable table amid the dullness.

About the most distinctive feminine hand writing in Gotham is that of a rather ribald supper club hostess. Her letters to customers are like steel engravings and yet it is said she never went to school save for two years.

I am also told all executives in an extremely high powered organization are men born and reared in towns less than 5,000 population and not one ever went to college.

The second cafe waiter to wear glasses in New York during the past 15 years was observed the other evening. The first one was at old Delmonico's. There is an unwritten law that waiters are not to be bespectacled. The explanation is not clear. It seems a rather foolish restriction for as some one has wisely said—no one ever sees the waiter's face.

It's all right to concentrate but when you turn the same idea over and over in your mind, they are liable to call you a crank.—Ashland Times-Gazette.

Power of Suggestion—"You are like a peach." The maiden hung her head. "I—I'd rather be a pair," she answered. The invitation cards are now out. —Fostoria Times.

ONE OF THOSE HOUSEHOLD WORDS

After Julia Ward Howe died, a memorial service was held for her in a city on the Pacific coast. The members of the local literary group attended in a body to pay a tribute to America's most brilliant poetess.

The committee in charge of the affair asked a municipal official to preside. Now, the person chosen for this honor was a highly successful politician and he knew about bookmakers, but not much about books. At the proper hour he advanced to the front of the platform to inaugurate the exercises and introduce the chosen eulogist. Before the audience, which was large, he bowed low and spoke as follows:

"You're being here today, ladies and gents, in such large numbers shows the appreciation our great city has for good readin'. This gathering is a magnificent testimonial to the memory of a person whose familiar name is a household word in every home. I refer to the immortal author of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'—the late Julius Ward Howard."

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Equipment of Homes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A survey of urban home equipment made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs shows that that great American institution, the bath tub, is not so universally in use in the town and city homes of this country as is popularly believed. Almost a third of the dwellings covered by the survey are minus this basic home equipment. In fact, a great many of the homes are minus various kinds of equipment that many people would think they could not get along without.

The federation is deeply interested in the betterment of the American home, and its officials believe that every home should have the maximum of modern conveniences and laborsaving devices. Before putting on a campaign to lighten the burdens of the average housewife, however, it was deemed necessary to ascertain just how the average housewife was situated in this respect and two surveys were projected—one of rural homes and the other of urban homes.

All told, there are approximately 21,000,000 urban dwellings in the United States. The communities covered by the survey numbered 228, with a total population of more than 32,000,000, and 6,096,399 dwellings and 7,911,630 families were included in the study. The communities were grouped as to population, those under 1,000; those of 1,000 to 2,500; 2,500 to 5,000; 5,000 to 10,000; 10,000 to 25,000; 25,000 to 50,000; 50,000 to 100,000; and over 100,000. More than half the communities studied were in the first two groups.

The community equipment was compiled as well as the home equipment, the first inquiry being as to water supply, and it was found that 83 per cent of the cities and towns had a public water supply, while 17 were dependent upon private wells. As to other essensials, 96.5 per cent of the communities had electricity; 37.2 per cent had gas; 60.8 per cent had water protection against impurities; 60.8 per cent had public sewer systems; 39.2 per cent had only private disposal of sewage; 31.7 per cent had public collection of garbage, ashes and trash, 11.2 per cent had private collection, and 58.8 had no collection at all; 96.2 per cent had public libraries.

Begins With Kitchen Sink.

Twenty-four different kinds of home equipment were listed in the questionnaries that were sent out, and it was found that the kitchen sink is the most common article, the returns showing that 83.9 per cent of the dwellings had that useful adjunct of the kitchen. Eighty two per cent of the dwellings had flush toilets; 71.3 per cent had wash basins; and 68.3 per cent had bath tubs.

In the matter of light, heat and the like, 80 per cent of the families enjoyed electric lights; 69 per cent had gas connections; 64.4 per cent had gas ranges; 33.1 per cent had gas water heaters; 7.9 per cent used gas lights; 2 per cent had electric ranges; and 56.5 per cent were provided with that decidely useful invention, the telephone.

Four articles are listed that are not thought of generally as home equipment—the automobile, the phonograph, the piano, and the radio—and they were possessed, respectively, by 55.7 per cent, 46.2 per cent, 40.4 per cent, and 24.1 per cent of the families.

Electric irons simplified work for 63.6 per cent of the households, while 34.6 per cent had electric vacuum cleaners; 28.3 per cent had stationary wash tubs; 23 per cent had electric washing machines; 4 per cent had electric sewing machines; 1.9 per cent had flat work ironers; 1.3 per cent had electric refrigerators; 0.8 per cent had incinerators; and 0.5 per cent had electric dish washers.

Having thus obtained a cross-section view of the American home, the federation of Women's Clubs will undertake to raise the standard by educational publicity and through cooperation with business and community interests. Merchants will be encouraged to make intensive seling drives on labor-saving household devices and housewives will be shown how using more and more of these devices will not only lighten their tasks, but will prove a sound measure of economy in the long run. Mrs. M. W. Barry, of College Station, Texas, will have general supervision of this work.

Huge Endowment to Be Raised.

At the recent meeting at the headquarters in Washington it was decided that the federation will raise an endowment fund of $5,000,000, the income of which will be used to finance the various activities of the organization. Heretofore the federation has been supported by a 10-cent per capita assessment annually on all the members of all the affiliated clubs. Considerable sums have been raised in this manner, but not enough to meet all the requirements and at times important opportunities for service have been lost because of a lack of funds.

Complete details as to how the endowment found will be raised have not been worked out as yet, but it is planned to have a separate drive in each state. Each state organization will retain one-half of the money raised in its jurisdiction. All these campaigns will be coordinated under the direction of an expert in money-raising drives. While $5,000,000 has been set as the desired objective an even larger fund will be welcomed and the national officers agree that there are abundant opportunities to use all the income that can be provided.

The work of the federation is divided under eight heads—American citizenship, the American home, education, fine arts, international relations, legislation, press and publicity, and public welfare.

One of its most ambitious projects is a fight on illiteracy. First an illiteracy survey will be made, covering a typical county in each state, and then the club women will undertake to wipe out illiteracy in each of those counties as the beginning of statewide campaigns. National educators

Pyorrhea penalizes 4 out of every 5

What a grim penalty Pyorrhea exacts for neglect! It spreads its poison through the system, undermines health, destroys precious youth. And four persons out of every five after forty (and thousands younger) get caught in its relentless grip.

But you need never fear Pyorrhea. Go to your dentist at least twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

Used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea or checks its vicious course. It firms the gums and keeps them healthy. It protects teeth and keeps them white.

It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., and contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid, used by dentists everywhere.

The Hague Opium Agreement

A number of years before the unsuccessful opium conferences at Geneva in 1924-5, there had been an international meeting at The Hague and an agreement upon a certain procedure. Article 9 of that agreement, to which the United States was a party, pledged the signers "to limit the manufacture, sale and use of morphine, cocaine and their respective salts to medical and legitimate uses only."

The United States has done a good deal toward carrying out that plan. But complete success of its work is made impossible by the failure of other countries to do their part. Our government believes that only a small part of the drugs manufactured here is diverted to illicit channels, yet the situation remains very bad because of the difficulty of keeping out smuggled narcotic drugs, readily obtained for that trade in other countries.

Rather shrewdly, but quite politely, this government addresses a diplomatic note to all the other nations signatory to the Hague Opium Convention of 1912, telling them of its own efforts, of the difficulties it has encountered and of the outside influences beyond its control. It asks if the other governments won't also make a frank statement of the existing situation in their countries, telling what they have done and what they are willing to do, even asking suggestions as to whether they think there is anything more that we can do.

The conferences at Geneva failed. Here is a real agreement which was excellent in itself, though never carried out. Why not, says Uncle Sam, make use of this old agreement right now to correct some of the more obvious evils of the narcotic drug trade? Then, maybe, other steps can be taken later on.

Child Labor In The States

When the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution was up for ratification in the state legislatures, one of the chief arguments successfully used against it was the one that child labor regulation was a state matter and should and would be taken care of by the states.

Friends of child labor regulation, therefore, have been interested in checking up on the existing conditions in the states. A list of the facts of child labor in this country as they existed in August, 1926, has been published by the National Child Labor Committee.

At that time seven states did not require school attendance after the age of 14; nine states permitted the employment of children of 14 without evidence of ability to read; 18 states did not require certificates of physical fitness signed by an authorized physician for employment of any child under 16 years; in 12 states it was not unlawful to work children under 16 from nine to 11 hours a day; in 35 states is was not unlawful to employ children at 14 to work on scaffolding; 28 states did not prohibit children of 14 from working around explosives; 22 states permitted children at 14 to run elevators; 33 states allowed children from 14 to 16 to work on railroads; 17 states permitted children from 14 to 16 to oil, wipe and clean machinery in motion.

Anyone who regards those conditions as unsatisfactory should be interested enough to find out where his own state stands in the list. If its record is bad, the news should be spread, citizens should be interested and the legislature should be made to correct the situation.

Bringing History To Life

Another building has been added to the group of historical edifices at Sudbury, Mass., where Henry Ford is re-creating an early American community. This latest acquisition is the old school house once attended by the Mary whose little lamb followed her to school one day with such enlivening results.

The building was brought to Sudbury from Sterling. Some of the original stones of the foundation have been used. The interior has been reconstructed, following the original as closely as possible. It is to be used as a school, with a good teacher, up-to-date curriculum and pupils from the neighborhood. It is at the same time a happy preservation of a typical New England school house of the early days.

The Sudbury community is gradually becoming a most charming museum of early Americana. Instead of collecting antiques, constructing models and reproductions to be put in some city museum, Mr. Ford is making his "museum" a living thing, placed in the natural setting of the Massachusetts countryside. The Wayside Inn, beautifully restored, filled with authentic antiques, rich in historical suggestion, is a delight to every patriot who visits it. The caretakers and guides there are more intelligent, interested, well-informed than in many of the other historical shrines of New England.

It would be a fine thing if similar restorations could be made in other parts of the country. America has grown and prospered so fast that it has thrust aside and lost forever a good many things worthy of preservation.

The feminist movement seems to have been diverted into a weight-reduction campaign.

Every time there's an international crisis, we all learn a little more geography.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Mid-Victorians who are constantly kept gasping at the social gaucheries of this ill-bred metropolis are now observing the abortive taste of diners out. New York is seated on swivel stools and gulping food at lunch counters.

The stool counter lunch—known in Texas as 'riding the pony"—no longer caters to a clientele of chauffeurs and truck drivers. The new trade glides up in softly purring limousines wearing decollete gowns and silk hats quite unabashed.

Just as the penny arcade flowered into the symphony orchestraed million dollar movie palace so has the hole-in-the-wall dirty spoon restaurant become a gaudy entablature to Epicurean desires. Snug fortunes are spent to floss them up.

Such clumsily painted signs as "Eddie's Place," "Eats" and "Sam's Stand" have vanished. In their stead are highly polished brass tablets reading: "The Cock Tavern," "Ye Olde Chop Inn" and such. The decorative idea strive to be quaint.

In the windows are huge open fire places of cobble stone and oyster shell. Meat slowly sizzles on glowing spits. From nickle plated hooks alongside hang pink hams studded with cloves, dripping roasts, smoking lamb legs and skinned little pigs with bright red appies in their mouths.

A bluff looking white aproned attendant in chef's cap is on hand to carve and saw off selections. The counters are of rich brown mahogany and the paintings are Old King Coleish. The stools are cushioned and have slight nickle plated backs.

Draft near beer is served in sweating stone mugs. The food is robust and the sort shunned by the vegetarian. How long the sudden craze will last is at present problematical but just now all the quaint little places are packed to suffocation.

The waffle shop idea burgeoned for awhile with black mammies in ginghams and turbaned with red kerchiefs, turning the griddles in expansive windows. They looked inviting but few want waffles in warm weather and the season was too short for big profits.

Night club tables may now be secured through agency reservations. As a rule a night club, through sad experience, pays about as much attention to advance reservations as a society mother to her children. Too often customers make reservations, have two more and go some place else or to bed. At the new agency one pays the couvert charge in advance and thus is assured of a desirable table amid the dullness.

About the most distinctive feminine hand writing in Gotham is that of a rather ribald supper club hostess. Her letters to customers are like steel engravings and yet it is said she never went to school save for two years.

I am also told all executives in an extremely high powered organization are men born and reared in towns less than 5,000 population and not one ever went to college.

The second cafe waiter to wear glasses in New York during the past 15 years was observed the other evening. The first one was at old Delmonico's. There is an unwritten law that waiters are not to be bespectacled. The explanation is not clear. It seems a rather foolish restriction for as some one has wisely said—no one ever sees the waiter's face.

ONE OF THOSE HOUSEHOLD WORDS

After Julia Ward Howe died, a memorial service was held for her in a city on the Pacific coast. The members of the local literary group attended in a body to pay a tribute to America's most brilliant poetess.

The committee in charge of the affair asked a municipal official to preside. Now, the person chosen for this honor was a highly successful politician and he knew about bookmakers, but not much about books. At the proper hour he advanced to the front of the platform to inaugurate the exercises and introduce the chosen eulogist. Before the audience, which was large, he bowed low and spoke as follows:

"You're being here today, ladies and gents, in such large numbers shows the appreciation our great city has for good readin'. This gathering is a magnificent testimonial to the memory of a person whose familiar name is a household word in every home. I refer to the immortal author of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'—the late Julius Ward Howard."

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Equipment of Homes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A survey of urban home equipment made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs shows that that great American institution, the bath tub, is not so universally in use in the town and city homes of this country as is popularly believed. Almost a third of the dwellings covered by the survey are minus this basic home equipment. In fact, a great many of the homes are minus various kinds of equipment that many people would think they could not get along without.

The federation is deeply interested in the betterment of the American home, and its officials believe that every home should have the maximum of modern conveniences and laborsaving devices. Before putting on a campaign to lighten the burdens of the average housewife, however, it was deemed necessary to ascertain just how the average housewife was situated in this respect and two surveys were projected—one of rural homes and the other of urban homes.

All told, there are approximately 21,000,000 urban dwellings in the United States. The communities covered by the survey numbered 228, with a total population of more than 32,000,000, and 6,096,399 dwellings and 7,911,630 families were included in the study. The communities were grouped as to population, those under 1,000; those of 1,000 to 2,500; 2,500 to 5,000; 5,000 to 10,000; 10,000 to 25,000; 25,000 to 50,000; 50,000 to 100,000; and over 100,000. More than half the communities studied were in the first two groups.

The community equipment was compiled as well as the home equipment, the first inquiry being as to water supply, and it was found that 83 per cent of the cities and towns had a public water supply, while 17 were dependent upon private wells. As to other essensials, 96.5 per cent of the communities had electricity; 37.2 per cent had gas; 60.8 per cent had water protection against impurities; 60.8 per cent had public sewer systems; 39.2 per cent had only private disposal of sewage; 31.7 per cent had public collection of garbage, ashes and trash. 11.2 per cent had private collection, and 58.8 had no collection at all; 96.2 per cent had public libraries.

Begins With Kitchen Sink.

Twenty-four different kinds of home equipment were listed in the questionnaries that were sent out, and it was found that the kitchen sink is the most common article, the returns showing that 83.9 per cent of the dwellings had that useful adjunct of the kitchen. Eighty two per cent of the dwellings had flush toilets; 71.3 per cent had wash basins; and 68.3 per cent had bath tubs.

In the matter of light, heat and the like, 80 per cent of the families enjoyed electric lights; 69 per cent had gas connections; 64.4 per cent had gas ranges; 33.1 per cent had gas water heaters; 7.9 per cent used gas lights; 2 per cent had electric ranges; and 56.5 per cent were provided with that decidely useful invention, the telephone.

Four articles are listed that are not thought of generally as home equipment—the automobile, the phonograph, the piano, and the radio—and they were possessed, respectively, by 55.7 per cent, 46.2 per cent, 40.4 per cent, and 24.1 per cent of the families.

Electric irons simplified work for 63.6 per cent of the households, while 34.6 per cent had electric vacuum cleaners; 28.3 per cent had stationary wash tubs; 23 per cent had electric washing machines; 4 per cent had electric sewing machines; 1.9 per cent had flat work ironers; 1.3 per cent had electric refrigerators; 0.8 per cent had incinerators; and 0.5 per cent had electric dish washers.

Having thus obtained a cross-section view of the American home, the federation of Women's Clubs will undertake to raise the standard by educational publicity and through cooperation with business and community interests. Merchants will be encouraged to make intensive seling drives on labor-saving household devices and housewives will be shown how using more and more of these devices will not only lighten their tasks, but will prove a sound measure of economy in the long run. Mrs. M. W. Barry, of College Station, Texas, will have general supervision of this work.

Huge Endowment to Be Raised.

At the recent meeting at the headquarters in Washington it was decided that the federation will raise an endowment fund of $5,000,000, the income of which will be used to finance the various activities of the organization. Heretofore the federation has been supported by a 10-cent per capita assessment annually on all the members of all the affiliated clubs. Considerable sums have been raised in this manner, but not enough to meet all the requirements and at times important opportunities for service have been lost because of a lack of funds.

Complete details as to how the endowment found will be raised have not been worked out as yet, but it is planned to have a separate drive in each state. Each state organization will retain one-half of the money raised in its jurisdiction. All these campaigns will be coordinated under the direction of an expert in money-raising drives. While $5,000,000 has been set as the desired objective an even larger fund will be welcomed and the national officers agree that there are abundant opportunities to use all the income that can be provided.

The work of the federation is divided under eight heads—American citizenship, the American home, education, fine arts, international relations, legislation, press and publicity, and public welfare.

One of its most ambitious projects is a fight on illiteracy. First an illiteracy survey will be made, covering a typical county in each state, and then the club women will undertake to wipe out illiteracy in each of those counties as the beginning of statewide campaigns. National educators are hopeful of striking results from this work.

Mrs. Jonn D. Sherman, of Colorado, has been president of the General Federation for more than two years now, and during her incumbency it has made a remarkable growth. There are now more than 16,000 clubs affiliated with the national organization, and it has been demonstrated that when they all get in motion along a given line or to a common end, the country discovers speedily that there is something going on.

Fifty-eight of the affiliated club are composed of English-speaking women in various other countries of the world. These clubs are not restricted to English or American women, but the members must be able to speak English. Some of them are notable organizations, the American Women's Club in Paris, for example, having a membership of more than 1,100.

The federation dates back to a meeting of club women called by the Sorosis, of New York, known as "the mother of the clubs," in 1889. It was chartered by a special act of congress in 1901.

These clubs are not restricted to English or American women, but the members must be able to speak English. Some of them are notable organizations, the American Women's Club in Paris, for example, having a membership of more than 1,100.

The federation dates back to a meeting of club women called by the Sorosis, of New York, known as "the mother of the clubs," in 1889. It was chartered by a special act of congress in 1901.

MILK TRUCK PLUNGES OVER WELLSVILLE EMBANKMENT

TROLLEY CARS FORCED TO USE SINGLE TRACK

Driverless Machine Hurdles Curb on Kountz Avenue.

ENGINE RUNNING

Crash Occurs as Harry Wood is Delivering Milk.

While the driver was busy delivering milk along the Kountz avenue hillside this morning at 4:40 o'clock, a Reo truck, owned by the Crockery City Ice and Products company of East Liverpool, which had been parked on the East Liverpool-Wellsville road, started off on a lone-handed trip over the curbing and stopped a few minutes later at the bottom of the hillside with its nose buried in the ditch alongside the westbound street car tracks a short distance east of Silver Switch.

The truck was so close to the westbound rails that street cars were forced to operate over a single track route from the top of the Jethro hill to the Silver switch cross-over until 9 o'clock this morning when the machine was pulled out.

Harry Wood, the driver, was delivering on his route in the Kountz avenue section and left the truck, with engine running, parked on the roadway.

In some mysterious manner, the truck began to move, hurdled the curbing and continued over the hillside.

It is believed that the vibration of the motor set the machine into motion.

The front end of the truck was damaged as a result of the accident.

And the remarkable thing about it is it contains no iron, chloroform or dope—harmless and safe, pleasant taste. Remember, relief within 15 minutes or money back. 35c., 60c. and $1.00. At all druggists.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

RUSSIA HOLDS ON TO WRANGELL, ISLAND PAID FOR BY AMERICANS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — The Lomen brothers, of the Lomen Reindeer and Trading Corporation, of Nome, Alaska, hold the only regularly bought-and-paid-for title to Wrangell Island, but the soviet government of Russia holds the island itself.

CARL J. LOMEN

Wrangell Island is no farming country.

It's as cold a bit of land-scape as there is on earth. It lies in the Arctic Ocean, about 100 miles north of the Siberian coast and 400 miles northwest of Bering Strait, well on its way to the North Pole.

Yet Russia considered it well worth grabbing and the Lomens emphatically want their island back.

Despite its climate, Wrangell Island has its good points.

It's a great place for furs. Its thirty-four or five hundred square miles will support a lot of reindeer. Its waters are alive with fish. Walruses by the thousand make their headquarters along it coast.

Most important of all, it's on the aerial main line, from nearly everywhere to almost everywhere else, across the North Pole. From the British Isles to Japan, for instance, is too far for a plane to hop over the pole, but it can do it nicely with a stop at Wrangell.

When trans-polar flying becomes the rage, Wrandell Island will be the most important way station on the route.

"It's valuable," said President Carl J. Lomen of the Lomen brothers company, in Washington the other day, "for its fur and its fish and its reindeer pasturage, but nobody can estimate what it will be worth, as aviation develops, as a 'pied a terre' for planes bound over the top of the world.

"What's Malta?" continued Lomen. "Just a little rock in the sea. As an island, not of much account. But strategically, it's the naval key to the Mediterranean. That's what Wrangell will be to Arctic aviation."

So when Vilhjalmar Stefansson, hard up at the time, offered to sell the island to the Lomens in 1923, they paid him some thousands for it and considered that they'd made a good buy.

It was a maverick island when Stefansson roped it. A Canadian, he stamped it with the British brand. The Lomens, Americans, rubbed this out and re-branded it with the stars and stripes.

But the Russians actually got to it before the Lomen did.

The Lomens had an ordinary boat, which had trouble with the ice. The Russians used an ice-breaker, which crashed right through. They took off Charles Wells, a white American Eskimos whom the Lomens had acquired as colonists from Shefansson, when they bought him out. They also appropriated $10,000 of the Lomens' furs.

Wells and his Eskimos next turned up at Vladivostock, Wells, according to the Russians, was sick.

"Unless something's done pretty quick," urged Carl Lomen upon the state department, "Wells will die. Eskimos tell no tales."

But the state department couldn't do anything, because it never had recognized the soviet government. Wells accordingly died. The Eskimos were deported to China and subsequently got back to Alaska. They won't know exactly what did happen, as Lomen predicted they wouldn't.

Wrangell Island has been visited several times since Baron Wrangell looked for it but didn't find it in 1821, but nobody ever bought it for cash until the Lomens did. Now Russia has gypped them out of it, and until the state department recognizes the Moscow government, they can't do a thing.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster

After the 'Flu' is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

YOUTH SEEKS TRUTH, ADVICE TO CHURCHMEN

Rev. R. W. Ustick's Committee Reports at Columbus.

PASTORS' MEET

Church Urged to Heed Young People's Views.

Pollyanna and Prince Charming are passing out of the picture, and in their stead the church must see young men and young women who demand to know and discuss relationship of life, and insist upon adventuring into economics and conventional social conduct, it was contended in Columbus before a thousand pastors attending the eighth annual conference of Ohio pastors, in the report of the committee on "The Church and Our Youth."

Rev. R. W. Ustick, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, of Wellsville, who is attending the pastors' meet, is a member of the youth committee.

"The church must deliver to youth from her pulpit," the report declared, "the knowledge of the social, sexual and spiritual relationships of life, as these are related to Christian and more development.

"She must so adjust her social program as to provide in the church, a place of expression for ideals of youth as they are related to physical and mental and social activity.

"The church must recognize its traditional functions and its plans of management in so far as it may be necessary to give the voice of youth a place in directing church activities and in planning her service.

"The task of the church today, as it is related to the ideals of youth, is that of inspiring them to use the weapons that modern inventions, and the spirit of freedom and familiarity, have placed in their hands.

"Youth's trouble today," the committee reported, "is that they have been thrown into water over their heads and most of them don't know how to swim, and even if they could, most of them are not sure what course they would take. The flood that has struck them is greater than any experienced by previous generations, and it has struck so suddenly that few people of the older generation have been able to help as yet in figuring out the way to the shore or the means of getting there."

The committee's report also included a reference to discussions of economics, communism and socialism, and questioned "the peculiar tendency of our day to see danger where none exists.

Children's Sore Throat

Mothers know that children's sore throats are serious, often leading to tonsilitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Also that it is hard to treat because the usual remedy is a gargle and children can not gargle.

A famous physician's prescription called Thoxine works on new principle—goes direct to the cause not reached by gargles and patent medicines and brings relief within 15 minutes or money back.

And the remarkable thing about it is it contains no iron, chloroform or dope—harmless and safe, pleasant taste. Remember, relief within 15 minutes or money back. 35c., 60c. and $1.00. At all druggists.

What's What in Washington

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

RUSSIA HOLDS ON TO WRANGELL, ISLAND PAID FOR BY AMERICANS

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — The Lomen brothers, of the Lomen Reindeer and Trading Corporation, of Nome, Alaska, hold the only regularly bought-and-paid-for title to Wrangell Island, but the soviet government of Russia holds the island itself.

CARL J. LOMEN

Wrangell Island is no farming country.

It's as cold a bit of land-scape as there is on earth. It lies in the Arctic Ocean, about 100 miles north of the Siberian coast and 400 miles northwest of Bering Strait, well on its way to the North Pole.

Yet Russia considered it well worth grabbing and the Lomens emphatically want their island back.

Despite its climate, Wrangell Island has its good points.

It's a great place for furs. Its thirty-four or five hundred square miles will support a lot of reindeer. Its waters are alive with fish. Walruses by the thousand make their headquarters along it coast.

Most important of all, it's on the aerial main line, from nearly everywhere to almost everywhere else, across the North Pole. From the British Isles to Japan, for instance, is too far for a plane to hop over the pole, but it can do it nicely with a stop at Wrangell.

When trans-polar flying becomes the rage, Wrandell Island will be the most important way station on the route.

"It's valuable," said President Carl J. Lomen of the Lomen brothers company, in Washington the other day, "for its fur and its fish and its reindeer pasturage, but nobody can estimate what it will be worth, as aviation develops, as a 'pied a terre' for planes bound over the top of the world.

"What's Malta?" continued Lomen. "Just a little rock in the sea. As an island, not of much account. But strategically, it's the naval key to the Mediterranean. That's what Wrangell will be to Arctic aviation."

So when Vilhjalmar Stefansson, hard up at the time, offered to sell the island to the Lomens in 1923, they paid him some thousands for it and considered that they'd made a good buy.

It was a maverick island when Stefansson roped it. A Canadian, he stamped it with the British brand. The Lomens, Americans, rubbed this out and re-branded it with the stars and stripes.

But the Russians actually got to it before the Lomen did.

The Lomens had an ordinary boat, which had trouble with the ice. The Russians used an ice-breaker, which crashed right through. They took off Charles Wells, a white American Eskimos whom the Lomens had acquired as colonists from Shefansson, when they bought him out. They also appropriated $10,000 of the Lomens' furs.

Wells and his Eskimos next turned up at Vladivostock, Wells, according to the Russians, was sick.

"Unless something's done pretty quick," urged Carl Lomen upon the state department, "Wells will die. Eskimos tell no tales."

But the state department couldn't do anything, because it never had recognized the soviet government. Wells accordingly died. The Eskimos were deported to China and subsequently got back to Alaska. They won't know exactly what did happen, as Lomen predicted they wouldn't.

Wrangell Island has been visited several times since Baron Wrangell looked for it but didn't find it in 1821, but nobody ever bought it for cash until the Lomens did. Now Russia has gypped them out of it, and until the state department recognizes the Moscow government, they can't do a thing.

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't SHOW!

There's a way to keep your hair just so, without any of that objectionable, "plastered-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-dampened towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and its beautiful lustre!

Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff! Dissolves every bit of it. Puts scalp in the pink of condition. Invigorates hair and hair-roots. Why use anything else?

After the 'Flu' is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debiliated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet —colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Careless Washing Spoils Children's Hair

Any child can have beautiful hair—healthy and luxuriant. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While children s hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, fine young hair and tender scalps cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why thoughtful mothers everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather which dissolves thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust and dirt.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Careless Washing Spoils Children's Hair

Any child can have beautiful hair—healthy and luxuriant. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While children's hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, fine young hair and tender scalps cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why thoughtful mothers everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather which rinses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust and dirt.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

LEGISLATURE CONSIDERS BAN ON SUNDAY AMUSEMENT

BILL IN HOUSE HITS DANCING AND SKATING

Measure Bans Entertainment to Which Admission is Charged.

HILL IS SPONSOR

Plan Survey of Salaries of State Employes.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.—Question of banning Sunday amusements is scheduled to come up in the house this afternoon for consideration.

A bill, introduced by Representative H. E. Hill, Marion county, decrees that no permits shal be issued for any public dance, roller skating, or like entertainment to be given on Sunday.

The bill, which comes up for second reading and reference to committee, defines the terms "public dance, roller skating, or like entertainment," as meaning "any dance, roller skating or like entertainment, to which admission can be had by payment of a fee, or by purchase, possession or presentation of a ticket, or in which a charge is made for refreshments, or for caring for clothing, or other property, or any other dance to which the public generally may gain admission, with, or without, a payment of a fee."

Compensation Act Unit Inquiry.

Proposal that a survey of salaries of state employes be made by a joint legislative committee, consisting of five senators and five house members, is contained in two senate joint resolutions and one house joint resolution up for action today.

A resolution by Senator J. N. Ackerman, Cleveland, provides for a complete investigation of the compensation and duties of state employes in all state departments, commissions, offices, bureaus, and educational and correctional institutions and for submission of a report and recommendations to the present legislative session.

Resolutions by Senator Maude C. Waitt, Cleveland, and Representative Clara W. Derr, Cleveland, are identical, calling for an immediate survey relative to the adequacy of salaries paid employes who administer the workmen's compensation act and other employes of the state department of industrial relations. The probing committee would be authorized to adjust salaries at least to the extent of meeting the advance in the prices of necessities since 1914, and to prepare a scale of "fair and adequate salaries" for each position of employment.

Purpose of Ackerman Resolution.

The announced purpose of the Ackerman resolution is "to standardize and consolidate positions and establish schedules of compensation in conformity with the duties and responsibilities involved."

The Ackerman resolution declares that "there are more than 8,600 positions in the state service with a salary range of from a few hundred dollars to $10,000 per annum" and that, because of "existing inequalities," there is a need for the standardization of salaries to meet changing economic conditions."

Other measures pending in the legislature today are:

In the Senate.

By Senator Davis Johnson, Fulton county, a joint resolution providing for submission to Ohio voters of a proposed amendment to the state constitution permitting an accused person to waive indictment by a grand jury and to stand trial without indictment.

By Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, providing for abolishment of the fee system and placing justices of the peace, mayors and constables on salaries.

By Senator E. Lefevre, Athens county, requiring Ohio State Institutions to buy Ohio-mined coal.

In the House.

By Representative D. S. Ingalls, Cuyahoga county, prohibiting mayors from retaining fees and decreeing that all fees shall be paid direct into the municipal treasury.

By Representative J. S. McKinley, Franklin county, providing for perpetual state auto license tags with renewal inserts of numerals to be furnished annually.

By Representative Osa Penny,

to confiscate Mexican property legally acquired by United States citizens?"

SUP... York asks the senate "to banish hypocrisy from American life by repealing the prohibition amendment." Republican senators know that Senator Wadsworth was beaten because he opposed that Eighteenth amendment. They don't want to be beaten, so they won't try to repeal it. They fear the prohibition question more than poison ivy, or rattlesnake.

Land Law Arbitration

Nicaragua, or by the publication of a formal statement, setting forth the fundamentals of the Mexican problem from the White House viewpoint Such a message, addressed either to congress or to the public generally, would simply put the administration's case before the country.

Mexico Seeks Settlement.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Unofficial reports that Mexico has a suggestion to offer the United States anent arbitration of the dispute over the Mexican oil and land laws were in circulation today, following the receipt of dispatches concerning the action of the United States senate in announcing in favor of arbitration.

The action of the senate was received here with a great deal of satisfaction and it was reported that when given the proper opportunity Mexico would have a proposal to make.

There is no doubt but what Mexico is anxious to bring the dispute to a point where eventual settlement is certain, for already there has begun a curtailment of oil production and further reduction is anticipated.

Reduction of production affects not only the investments of the companies concerned but also raises a serious problem for the Mexican treasury. One sixth of Mexico's annual income is received from petroleum taxes and any restriction of these taxes is immediately felt.

Non-stop Flight

apparatus may work to place any record made in some other category, but this will be decided by the N. A. A. in Washington.

Wing is Three Feet Thick.

Aeronautical experts concerned with the flight say that only two types of planes are capable of furnishing both the necessary speed and carrying power to make such a journey, the Fokker and the Sikorsky, the former of which is being equipped with a special type of wing over three feet in thickness at the fuselage.

Schoenhair is financing the flight.

Schoenhair, a native of Parkersburg, Ia., learned to fly with the military aviation units here during the war. He chose North Island for his take-off field because of combined weather conditions and mechanical facilities, made possible by the presence of government air shops.

The civilian flier has been insured for $100,000 for the flight and the plane for its value—$60,000—for the flight across the United States.

Westward it will wing its way—on a journey none has yet completed. But with marine and civilian combined experience, the aviators hope to bring new laurels to American aviation.

Montgomery county, prohibiting public hearings of divorce suits.

First Bill Passed.

The first bill to pass either the house or the senate this session is that of Senator C. L. Shafer, Van Wert county, permitting villages to cede old village cemeteries to townships for purposes of maintenance. The senate passed the Shafer bill by a vote of 33 to 0 late Tuesday.

The senate judiciary committee, it was announced, has postponed action on the bills by Senators Bender and N. P. Johnson, Mahoning county, seeking to restrict activities of village mayors and justices of the peace to their respective bailiwicks, until after another public hearing is held at 7:30 p. m., February 2.

The Republican senatorial majority, during a caucus late Tuesday, it was announced, agreed to give Governor Vic Donahey control of the state utilities, industrial and tax commissions during the next two years by confirming his appointment of Democrats to two-year and four-year terms.

The Republican senators, however, decided, it was stated to hold up the governor's appointment of Republicans to six-year terms on these commissions. Thereby making it possible for the next governor to obtain control of them.

Two Bills Approved.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.—Bills allowing the use of photostatic copies in the county recorder's office and to allow county sheriffs only the sum which they expended for food for prisoners today were favored by the senate committee on county affairs, which voted to recommend their passage. Both bills were introduced by George H. Bender, Cleveland.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—After an irregular opening, in which the advances and declines in the industrial and railroad stocks were about evenly divided, the market rallied under the impetus of brisk short covering, and recoveries of a point or two were inaugurated in the leading stocks.

Shorts were caught napping in United States Steel when the record-breaking quarterly earnings statement for the final quarter of 1926 was made public after Tuesday's close, disclosed the very profitable earnings operations of the big corporation at the end of the year. Though steel common made a very tardy response to the statement, the industrial stock list as a whole showed the effect of hasty short covering.

Simultaneously with reports that the Van Swearingens and other railroad magnates were discussing railroad mergers with a view to prompt announcement of their plans in the greater Nickel Plate merger, active buying was resumed in Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland and other railroad stocks with merger possibilities. New Haven registered a strong comeback, while Erie first preferred was in demand above 56 in anticipation of the inauguration of dividends on this stock.

The motor stocks and the oils responded with higher prices to speculative buying and short covering, though the rallies were half-hearted and mostly fractional. Stocks of the copper and oil companies with Mexican property holdings were firm in active trading. Radio corporation and Timken Roller Bearing continued their brilliant forward moves, while Baldwin Locomotive and a few other speculative favorites gained a point or two.

Marines Arouse Hostility

victorious Cantonese are expected to sweep down upon Shanghai, making necessary the defense of the international city by force of arms.

The British and the Japanese already have taken unmistakable steps toward defending the city, the former having under way a "Shanghai defense force" consisting of almost 20,000 men.

No Plans for Common Defense.

Meanwhile, though it is virtually certain that it will be drawn into the fight, the United States remains undecided as to whether it will join in a common defense with the other powers. The administration has been hoping against hope that such a step would not become necessary, and has drawn no plans, as far as could be ascertained today, to co-operate with the other powers. The only public pronouncement in this regard has been the White House statement that "we will do the best we can" there to protect American lives and property.

The futility of attempting to retain the foreign concessions in Shanghai by military force without a consequent widespread loss of lives is again being emphasized here. The millions of Chinese who live in or near the international settlement would undoubtedly take part in any mob violence that the Nationalist agitators may inspire. To successfully defend the city, then, it would be necessary to drive out these natives even at the cost of a wholesale massacre.

It is considered here that nothing short of overwhelming defeat will keep the Cantonese from Shanghai, the second most important objective in their drive toward complete conquest of the country. The city has the richest customs port in China and it controls the entrance to the Yangtze valley and as such is of great military importance to the southerners who now control most of the valley.

$1,000,000 for this way to end Colds

One of the world's largest laboratories perfected a way to end colds. It combined a number of modern discoveries. That way proved itself so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

That way is called HILL'S. It checks a cold in 24 hours. It ends the fever, stops the headache. It opens the bowels, tones the entire system. And without any ill effects. As a result, one usually feels better than before the cold began.

Millions now employ it. When they learn its results they keep it ever on hand. Then a cold rarely gets started.

Here is all-in-all for colds—the best modern science knows. Things will change tomorrow if you take it now. Go start it without delay.

Gov. Donahey Calls For Senate Action On Leonard's Name

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—Governor Vic Donahey today announced his decision not to send any more appointments to the Ohio senate until his appointment of Wellington T. Leonard, Mansfield Republican, as a member of the state industrial commission for a six-year term, has been confirmed, or rejected.

"I am well within my rigat to demand this courtesy, for one thing," declared the governor, "and, for another, the action of the senate would have a bearing on other appointments in the future."

Donahey sent Leonard's appointment to the senate more than a week ago. The senate deferred action on the appointment, Republican leaders explaining that the postponement was for the purpose of "giving further consideration" to it.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 26.—"A victory for prayer" was the way the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister, today characterized his acquittal of the charge of murdering Dexter E. Chipps, lumber broker in his Fort Worth study, last July 17.

Beyond the laconic tribute to the devotion of his congregation of 8,000 members of the First Baptist church and expressions of joy, Rev. Norris was silent today.

"My heart is too full of joy to say anything," he said. "The verdict of these twelve good men is the answer of 12 God-fearing men to the conspiracy of the powerful clique in Fort Worth and the persecution to which I have been subject since the start of this trial."

LEGISLATURE CONSIDERS BAN ON SUNDAY AMUSEMENT

BILL IN HOUSE HITS DANCING AND SKATING

Measure Bans Entertainment to Which Admission is Charged.

HILL IS SPONSOR

Plan Survey of Salaries of State Employes.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.—Question of banning Sunday amusements is scheduled to come up in the house this afternoon for consideration.

A bill, introduced by Representative H. E. Hill, Marion county, decrees that no permits shal be issued for any public dance, roller skating, or like entertainment to be given on Sunday.

The bill, which comes up for second reading and reference to committee, defines the terms "public dance, roller skating, or like entertainment,' as meaning "any dance, roller skating or like entertainment, to which admission can be had by payment of a fee, or by purchase, possession or presentation of a ticket, or in which a charge is made for refreshments, or for caring for clothing, or other property, or any other dance to which the public generally may gain admission, with, or without, a payment of a fee."

Compensation Act Unit Inquiry.

Proposal that a survey of salaries of state employes be made by a joint legislative committee, consisting of five senators and five house members, is contained in two senate joint resolutions and one house joint resolution up for action today.

A resolution by Senator J. N. Ackerman, Cleveland, provides for a complete investigation of the compensation and duties of state employes in all state departments, commissions, offices, bureaus, and educational and correctional institutions and for submission of a report and recommendations to the present legislative session.

Resolutions by Senator Maude C. Waitt, Cleveland, and Representative Clara W. Derr, Cleveland, are identical, calling for an immediate survey relative to the adequacy of salaries paid employes who administer the workmen's compensation act and other employes of the state department of industrial relations. The probing committee would be authorized to adjust salaries at least to the extent of meeting the advance in the prices of necessities since 1914, and to prepare a scale of "fair and adequate salaries" for each position of employment.

Purpose of Ackerman Resolution.

The announced purpose of the Ackerman resolution is "to standardize and consolidate positions and establish schedules of compensation in conformity with the duties and responsibilities involved."

The Ackerman resolution declares that "there are more than 8,000 positions in the state service with a salary range of from a few hundred dollars to $10,000 per annum' and that, because of "existing inequalities," there is a need for the standardization of salaries to meet changing economic conditions."

Other measures pending in the legislature today are:

In the Senate.

By Senator Davis Johnson, Fulton county, a joint resolution providing for submission to Ohio voters of a proposed amendment to the state constitution permitting an accused person to waive indictment by a grand jury and to stand trial without indictment.

By Senator George H. Bender Cleveland, providing for abolishment of the fee system and placing justices of the peace, mayors and constables on salaries.

By Senator E. Lefevre, Athens county, requiring Ohio State Institutions to buy Ohio-mined coal.

In the House.

By Representative D. S Ingalls, Cuyahoga county, prohibiting mayors from retaining fees and decreeing that all fees shall be paid direct into the municipal treasury.

By Representative J. S. McKinley, Franklin county, providing for perpetual state auto license tags with renewal inserts of numerals to be furnished annually.

By Representative Osa Penny, Montgomery county, prohibiting public hearings of divorce suits.

First Bill Passed.

The first bill to pass either the house or the senate this session is that of Senator C. L. Shafer, Van Wert county, permitting villages to cede old village cemeteries to townships for purposes of maintenance. The senate passed the Shafer bill by a vote of 33 to 0 late Tuesday.

The senate judiciary committee, it was announced, has postponed action on the bills by Senators Bender and N. P. Johnson, Mahoning county, seeking to restrict activities of village mayors and justices of the peace to their respective bailiwicks, until after another public hearing is held at 7:30 p. m., February 2.

The Republican senatorial majority, during a caucus late Tuesday, it was announced, agreed to give Governor Vic Donahey control of the state utilities, industrial and tax commissions during the next two years by confirming his appointment of Democrats to two-year and four-year terms.

The Republican senators, however, decided, it was stated to hold up the governor's appointment of Republicans to six-year terms on these commissions. Thereby making it possible for the next governor to obtain control of them.

Two Bills Approved.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.—Bills allowing the use of photostatic copies in the county recorder's office and to allow county sheriffs only the sum which they expended for food for prisoners, today were favored by the senate committee on county affairs, which voted to recommend their passage. Both bills were introduced by George H. Bender, Cleveland.

to confiscate Mexican property legally acquired by United States citizens?"

SUN... York asks the senate "to banish hypocrisy from American life by repealing the prohibition amendment." Republican senators know that Senator Wadsworth was beaten because he opposed that Eighteenth amendment. They don't want to be beaten, so they won't try to repeal it. They fear the prohibition question more than poison ivy, or rattlesnake.

Land Law Arbitration

Nicaragua, or by the publication of a formal statement, setting forth the fundamentals of the Mexican problem from the White House viewpoint. Such a message, addressed either to congress or to the public generally, would simply put the administration's case before the country.

Mexico Seeks Settlement.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Unofficial reports that Mexico has a suggestion to offer the United States anent arbitration of the dispute over the Mexican oil and land laws were in circulation today, following the receipt of dispatches concerning the action of the United States senate in announcing in favor of arbitration.

The action of the senate was received here with a great deal of satisfaction and it was reported that when given the proper opportunity Mexico would have a proposal to make.

There is no doubt but what Mexico is anxious to bring the dispute to a point where eventual settlement is certain, for already there has begun a curtailment of oil production and further reduction is anticipated.

Reduction of production affects not only the investments of the companies concerned but also raises a serious problem for the Mexican treasury. One sixth of Mexico's annual income is received from petroleum taxes and any restriction of these taxes is immediately felt.

Non-stop Flight

apparatus may work to place any record made in some other category, but this will be decided by the N. A. A. in Washington.

Wing is Three Feet Thick.

Aeronautical experts concerned with the flight say that only two types of planes are capable of furnishing both the necessary speed and carrying power to make such a journey, the Fokker and the Sikorsky, the former of which is being equipped with a special type of wing over three feet in thickness at the fuselage.

Schoenhair is financing the flight.

Schoenhair, a native of Parkersburg, Ia., learned to fly with the military aviation units here during the war. He chose North Island for his take-off field because of combined weather conditions and mechanical facilities, made possible by the presence of government air shops.

The civilian flier has been insured for $100,000 for the flight and the plane for its value—$60,000—for the flight across the United States.

Westward it will wing its way—on a journey none has yet completed. But with marine and civilian combined experience, the aviators hope to bring new laurels to American aviation.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—After an irregular opening, in which the advances and declines in the industrial and railroad stocks were about evenly divided, the market rallied under the impetus of brisk short covering, and recoveries of a point or two were inaugurated in the leading stocks.

Shorts were caught napping in United States Steel when the record-breaking quarterly earnings statement for the final quarter of 1926 was made public after Tuesday's close, disclosed the very profitable earnings operations of the big corporation at the end of the year. Though steel common made a very tardy response to the statement, the industrial stock list as a whole showed the effect of hasty short covering.

Simultaneously with reports that the Van Swearingens and other railroad magnates were discussing railroad mergers with a view to prompt announcement of their plans in the greater Nickel Plate merger, active buying was resumed in Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland and other railroad stocks with merger possibilities. New Haven registered a strong comeback, while Erie first preferred was in demand above 56 in anticipation of the inauguration of dividends on this stock.

The motor stocks and the oils responded with higher prices to speculative buying and short covering, though the rallies were half-hearted and mostly fractional. Stocks of the copper and oil companies with Mexican property holdings were firm in active trading. Radio corporation and Timken Roller Bearing continued their brilliant forward moves, while Baldwin Locomotive and a few other speculative favorites gained a point or two.

Marines Arouse Hostility

victorious Cantonese are expected to sweep down upon Shanghai, making necessary the defense of the international city by force of arms.

The British and the Japanese already have taken unmistakable steps toward defending the city, the former having under way a "Shanghai defense force" consisting of almost 20,000 men.

No Plans for Common Defense.

Meanwhile, though it is virtually certain that it will be drawn into the fight, the United States remains undecided as to whether it will join in a common defense with the other powers. The administration has been hoping against hope that such a step would not become necessary, and has drawn no plans, as far as could be ascertained today, to co-operate with the other powers. The only public pronouncement in this regard has been the White House statement that "we will do the best we can" there to protect American lives and property.

The futility of attempting to retain the foreign concessions in Shanghai by military force without a consequent widespread loss of lives is again being emphasized here. The millions of Chinese who live in or near the international settlement would undoubtedly take part in any mob violence that the Nationalist agitators may inspire. To successfully defend the city, then, it would be necessary to drive out these natives even at the cost of a wholesale massacre.

It is considered here that nothing short of overwhelming defeat will keep the Cantonese from Shanghai, the second most important objective in their drive toward complete conquest of the country. The city has the richest customs port in China and it controls the entrance to the Yangtze valley and as such is of great military importance to the southerners who now control most of the valley.

Colds

One of the world's largest laboratories perfected a way to end colds. It combined a number of modern discoveries. That way proved itself so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

That way is called HILL'S. It checks a cold in 24 hours. It ends the fever, stops the headache. It opens the bowels, tones the entire system. And without any ill effects. As a result, one usually feels better than before the cold began.

Millions now employ it. When they learn its results they keep it ever on hand. Then a cold rarely gets started.

Here is all-in-all for colds—the best modern science knows. Things will change tomorrow if you take it now. Go start it without delay.

FLOOD OF BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

State Lawmakers Busy as Initial Session Comes to Close.

With the close of the initial session of the legislature today at Charleston the number of bills presented in both houses is expected to fall short of record sessions. When both houses adjourned last night the house had a total of 434 proposals, while those introduced in the senate numbered 275.

Several proposed amendments to the constitution were included in yesterday's proposals, one of them by Senator Willis designed to permit election of two circuit judges in which the population exceeded 45,000. Senator Hugus also presented one which would allow more than one judge to a circuit, but instead of fixing a number would leave that to the legislature while Senator Wilkin proposed to add to the circuit court provisions of the constitution a section giving these courts sole jurisdiction in probate matters and providing for probate commissioners for each court.

Another move in the senate's health department legislative program was taken when Senator Smith, of Marion county, introduced a bill to give that department supervision over tourist camps, and the same senator also introducted a bill which would regulate barbers and create a board of examiners for them. Senator Devore introduced a bill to establish a state racing commission and Senator Willis presented one that would call for a five cent levy on each $100 of property to be laid by the state and reserved for the expenditures of West Virginia university. Senator Helmick introduced a bill which would give the public service commission authority to certify whether bus routes were necessary before licenses were granted, and which would also have that body fix rates and schedules of service.

Senator Hallanan introduced a bill calling for establishment of a new tuberculosis sanitarium, the site to be determined by the state board of control, but with the provision that it be south of an east and west line drawn through the town of Flatwoods.

Free text books continued a favorite subject for bills in the house of delegates, one such proposal being made by Delegate Lantz, in addition to several already in the house hopper.

Delegate Massie attacked the textbook problem from another angle in a bill which would standardize textbooks in the schools, copyright them and forbid changes for 15 years.

"Christianity makes and contributes the greatest freedom possible for mankind" declared Dr. W. S. Knapp, Westerville evangelist, in his second sermon of a series of meetings at the Methodist Protestant church last evening. "It is the abundant life," he explained, "that is shorn of all sinful bounds."

That churches frequently were shortened in their intended beneficent effects because many members were under the domination of pride and secret sins, he averred. "Such cannot be possessed of the overflow which has its effect upon those we touch."

Following the preliminary song service the large marimba, was utilized for the first time by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Vinaroff. The instrument made an impressive appeal.

Placing 303 as the expected quota of attendance at the Sunday school next Sunday, Mr. Vinaroff emphasized the need for arriving five minutes before starting time by singing, accompanied by Mrs. Vinaroff, "We Shall Go to Sunday Sunday School at 9:45" to a familiar tune. Those not present last Sunday were adroitly made to sing the new number alone. His evening solo was "Pray Without Ceasing; Pray Through."

"The Lost Axe" will be Dr. Knapp's subject for this evening. "If Dr. Knapp was a regular pastor he should in my opinion delive this discourse every two months to his congregation," Mr. Vinaroff commented.

Twenty minute prayer services by both men and women, Rev. Mr. Dimit announced will precede each service during the campaign, the former assembling in the Young Men's and the latter in Mrs. Risinger's class rooms.

The invocation was made by Rev. John Spencer, of New Cumberland, W. Va., and the benediction given by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the Baptist church of this city.

Children will assemble at 4 o'clock this afternoon for initial choral practice preparatory to their appearance with new songs on Saturday evening.

"Bring One" night will be celebrated this evening when every one attending is expected to be accompanied by another person.

Utilizing the story of the healing of the woman bound down by illness for 18 years as his text, Dr. Knapp declared that the acceptance of Christ loosed the human soul from bondage, giving it superlative freedom and an overflow of life that affects for good persons about it.

He affirmed the duty of Jesus stood despite all efforts of present and past opponents to make of him simply a man a bit wiser than all others who had ever lived. Likewise he held that his miracles, despite the same opposition to their credibility, had never been disproved. "The supernatural of the miracles and of religion still stands in there impregnability," he maintained. "Jesus Christ was God manifested in the flesh, the Almighty's son as man is not and can never be."

"There are church stewarts who sometimes get stewed; Sunday school teachers who expatiate on the beauties of the redeemed life without saving souls; members who would not attend church were they not afraid to go to hell and who probably will anyhow unless they loose themselves from the bounds of sin. We should count, that day lost in which no part of the word of God has been absorbed."

Dr. Knapp averred sin was too strong a force for any human to combat alone.

FLOOD OF BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

State Lawmakers Busy as Initial Session Comes to Close.

With the close of the initial session of the legislature today at Charleston the number of bills presented in both houses is expected to fall short of record sessions. When both houses adjourned last night the house had a total of 434 proposals, while those introduced in the senate numbered 275.

Several proposed amendments to the constitution were included in yesterday's proposals, one of them by Senator Willis designed to permit election of two circuit judges in which the population exceeded 45,000. Senator Hugus also presented one which would allow more than one judge to a circuit, but instead of fixing a number would leave that to the legislature while Senator Wilkin proposed to add to the circuit court provisions of the constitution a section giving these courts sole jurisdiction in probate matters and providing for probate commissioners for each court.

Another move in the senate's health department legislative program was taken when Senator Smith, of Marion county, introduced a bill to give that department supervision over tourist camps, and the same senator also introducted a bill which would regulate barbers and create a board of examiners for them. Senator Devore introduced a bill to establish a state racing commission and Senator Willis presented one that would call for a five cent levy on each $100 of property to be laid by the state and reserved for the expenditures of West Virginia university. Senator Helmick introduced a bill which would give the public service commission authority to certify whether bus routes were necessary before licenses were granted, and which would also have that body fix rates and schedules of service.

Senator Hallanan introduced a bill calling for establishment of a new tuberculosis sanitarium, the site to be determined by the state board of control, but with the provision that it be south of an east and west line drawn through the town of Flatwoods.

Free text books continued a favorite subject for bills in the house of delegates, one such proposal being made by Delegate Lantz, in addition to several already in the house hopper.

Delegate Massie attacked the textbook problem from another angle in a bill which would standardize textbooks in the schools, copyright them and forbid changes for 15 years.

FARM BUREAUS TO STAGE DRIVE

Membership Campaign is Outlined by State Federation.

Three silver loving cups are being offered to winners of a contest between the 25 county farm bureaus taking part in the present membership campaign, according to word received from the Ohio farm bureau federation by L. R. Whinnery of Salem. Whinnery represented Columbiana county at a meeting of representatives of these 25 counties at Columbus Saturday. The cups are offered by the federation on the basis of membership secured in each county.

The county farm bureau which signs the largest percentage of the farmers of the county as farm bureau members will be awarded the first cup, according to the rules. The second will go to the county group securing the greatest increase over its old membership and the third to the county farm bureau securing the largest number of members. No two cups will be given to any one county farm bureau, according to the rules. A cup will also be awarded to the township signing the largest number of members.

The Mahoning county farm bureau has challenged the Columbiana county farm bureau to a contest in the membership work which will be staged in February. The points considered are completion of the soliciting, percentage of prospects signed up and the percentage of membership as compared to the present membership. The board of directors of the losing county must individually pay for an oyster supper to be given at Salem to the board of the winning county. Stanley Howard is manager of the Mahoning campaign and L. R. Whinnery is manager in Columbiana county.

County Farmers Will Benefit by Reduction In Traffic Rates

Through the efforts of the traffic department of the Columbus office of the Ohio farm bureau federation, reduced rates on fertilizer will soon be authorized for shipments into Columbiana county.

This reduction in new tariffs was explained to farm bureau service managers at a meeting of these men held in the Summit county court house at Akron last Saturday, it was announced today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of this county.

The new rates, however, will not be effective for 120 days, and will not apply to shipments on fertilizer that will be shipped into the county during the next three months.

C. S. Long, farm bureau federation traffic manager, has been at work on this reduced rate problem for about a year, and the idea was accepted by the Carriers' association very recently.

O. P. Neutzel, state service manager for the farm bureau, also spoke at the Akron meeting.

The meeting at Akron followed a general conference of township purchasing agents of this county held at Lisbon last week, when plans and policies of the purchasing agents for the current year were discussed.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL DENIED

A motion for a new trial has been overruled by Judge Charles N. Moore in the case of Earl Ritchie, constable at Salem in his $25,000 damage action against Lucretia Oltean, of Salem, wherein a jury returned a verdict for $10,000 in favor of the plaintiff in common pleas No. 2 January 11. The original action was filed by Ritchie against the defendant January 21, 1925.

The plaintiff has leave to file a bill of exceptions within 40 days after the motion for the new trial was overruled.

COUNTY HIGHWAY TO BE IMPROVED

At a scheduled hearing for damages as a result of the proposed surfacing of the Salem-Hanover road in Butler and Hanover township no one appeared before the county commissioners Monday afternoon. This situation removes all obstacles from the improvement of this north-south county highway.

Bids have been asked for the surfacing of this road, and they will be opened by the county commissioners next Monday afternoon.

SPRUCEVALE ROAD GRADING PLANNED

A steam shovel is to be placed on the grading of the Sprucevale road in St. Clair township this spring, but the grading will be done under the direction of the county commissioners and County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. A shovel was placed on this road several months ago, but its work was stopped because of the slow progress it made and the excessive cost to the county. At a meeting of the commissioners Monday afternoon it was announced that all future work on this road would be done under the direction of a representative of the county.

Condition Improving.

BOY AWARDED DAMAGE VERDICT

Jack Seeds, a 13-year-old news boy of Salem, was given a verdict for $350 damages by a jury in the common pleas court here on Tuesday against Sylvanus A. Worman of that city for injuries he received on the 13th of last October, when Worman ran into him as he was riding his bicycle delivering newspapers.

The boy was riding west on Cleveland avenue in Salem, and when he neared the intersection of Highland avenue Worman drove his car into the street at a high and, it is said, a dangerous rate of speed. It is said he failed to look toward the east as he drove into the street or he would have seen the boy in time to have avoided hitting him, and when the car and bicycle came together with a crash the boy was hurt and the bicycle was demolished.

Young Seeds sustained an injured knee and hip, and lacerations.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FARM BUREAUS TO STAGE DRIVE

Membership Campaign is Outlined by State Federation.

Three silver loving cups are being offered to winners of a contest between the 25 county farm bureaus taking part in the present membership campaign, according to word received from the Ohio farm bureau federation by L. R. Whinnery of Salem. Whinnery represented Columbiana county at a meeting of representatives of these 25 counties at Columbus Saturday. The cups are offered by the federation on the basis of membership secured in each county.

The county farm bureau which signs the largest percentage of the farmers of the county as farm bureau members will be awarded the first cup, according to the rules. The second will go to the county group securing the greatest increase over its old membership and the third to the county farm bureau securing the largest number of members. No two cups will be given to any one county farm bureau, according to the rules. A cup will also be awarded to the township signing the largest number of members.

The Mahoning county farm bureau has challenged the Columbiana county farm bureau to a contest in the membership work which will be staged in February. The points considered are completion of the soliciting, percentage of prospects signed up and the percentage of membership as compared to the present membership. The board of directors of the losing county must individually pay for an oyster supper to be given at Salem to the board of the winning county. Stanley Howard is manager of the Mahoning campaign and L. R. Whinnery is manager in Columbiana county.

County Farmers Will Benefit by Reduction In Traffic Rates

Through the efforts of the traffic department of the Columbus office of the Ohio farm bureau federation, reduced rates on fertilizer will soon be authorized for shipments into Columbiana county.

This reduction in new tariffs was explained to farm bureau service managers at a meeting of these men held in the Summit county court house at Akron last Saturday, it was announced today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of this county.

The new rates, however, will not be effective for 120 days, and will not apply to shipments on fertilizer that will be shipped into the county during the next three months.

C. S. Long, farm bureau federation traffic manager, has been at work on this reduced rate problem for about a year, and the idea was accepted by the Carriers' association very recently.

O. P. Neutzel, state service manager for the farm bureau, also spoke at the Akron meeting.

The meeting at Akron followed a general conference of township purchasing agents of this county held at Lisbon last week, when plans and policies of the purchasing agents for the current year were discussed.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL DENIED

A motion for a new trial has been overruled by Judge Charles N. Moore in the case of Earl Ritchie, constable at Salem in his $25,000 damage action against Lucretia Oltean, of Salem, wherein a jury returned a verdict for $10,000 in favor of the plaintiff in common pleas No. 2 January 11. The original action was filed by Ritchie against the defendant January 21, 1925.

The plaintiff has leave to file a bill of exceptions within 40 days after the motion for the new trial was overruled.

COUNTY HIGHWAY TO BE IMPROVED

At a scheduled hearing for damages as a result of the proposed surfacing of the Salem-Hanover road in Butler and Hanover township no one appeared before the county commissioners Monday afternoon. This situation removes all obstacles from the improvement of this north-south county highway.

Bids have been asked for the surfacing of this road, and they will be opened by the county commissioners next Monday afternoon.

SPRUCEVALE ROAD GRADING PLANNED

A steam shovel is to be placed on the grading of the Sprucevale road in St. Clair township this spring, but the grading will be done under the direction of the county commissioners and County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. A shovel was placed on this road several months ago, but its work was stopped because of the slow progress it made and the excessive cost to the county. At a meeting of the commissioners Monday afternoon it was announced that all future work on this road would be done under the direction of a representative of the county.

TUNNEY PLANS TRIP ABROAD NEXT SUMMER

Sends Dudley Field Malone as Advance Agent.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. — Prominent Americans who will sail for abroad early this summer are the captain of the Leviathan and James Joseph Tunney, the well known heavyweight champion. The latter informed the writer today that he is seriously considering offers for a theatrical and exhibition tour of Germany, England and France and is so enamored of the idea that he is dispatching his barrister, Dudley Field Malone, to the scene to discover what he may.

Dudley or Deadley, as the boys seem to know him best, will sail on Saturday and he may be relied upon to discover all, including the uncharted box office.

The champion's tentative plans were outlined to me in some detail just before he left today on another buck hunt through the west. This is done by tracking the wild and untrammeled buck to the house manager's safe and claiming it for your own. Mr. Tunney says Daniel Boone was a pretty good hunter, too.

Anyhow, the end of the march will bring the closed season; so Mr. Tunney would hie him elsewhere. His rather sketchy plans at this immature moment call for him to leave for abroad in April and return in June at which juncture it is expected it will be cauliflower time in pugilistica.

Tunney will begin active training then for the defense of his title against the accepted challenger and the party who thinks he won't be "right" for the big moment has a frayed cuff in his family closet.

"I'm not three pounds overweight right now," Tunney declared. "I weigh 190 to an ounce and, if the demand was made, I could enter the ring within four weeks fit and ready to fight as well as ever I did. But I'm taking no chances.

"Soon after the first week in June, I will leave for the woods with four or five sparring partners and, by easy stages, I will work my way to perfection in physical condition."

It had been said of Dempsey that he was "never out of condition" but by September 24 last there were at least 130,000 people who knew that was wrong. However, it really goes for Tunney. His average day is just a recital of what the well behaved man will do.

"I'm up by 7 o'clock and go through a series of calisthenics," he declared without shame. "After breakfast, I go for a long walk sometimes interspersed with occasional sprints. Then I appear in four or five shows a day at which my sparring exhibitions serve to keep my eye in trim.

"I have a light meal in the evening and usually indulge in crackers and milk just before retiring, which seldom is later than 11 o'clock."

It all sounds quite irritating to me. But, then, virtue is its own reward or something.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

A very fine way of acquiring the knack of keeping the arms free and easy throughout the back swing—the arms being about the first to generate rigidity — is this: Withdraw the clubhead, then sweep the arms outward and upward freely and easily and without thought of pivot or anything else. In practice you can watch the arms do that. Seek to maintain a feeling of hand-control over the club all the way back. Do that a few times, being careful to keep your left hand closed against the shaft at the top, and keep the wrist action down during the back swing—that is, let the clubhead stay about even with the hands. After you do this a few times, try it next with the idea of looking at the ball and keeping your head still. Note, as you do, how easily and naturally you fall into correct position, with no straining and tugging at all. You can just as well make the swing be easy and graceful.

HANK SEVEREID, after spending the greater part of 16 campaigns as a big league catcher, was told to move on the other day by the New York Yankees. Being a 10-year man, Severeid received his unconditional release, which left him free to sign where he leased.

HANK SEVEREID

Severeid has done considerable "roaming" of recent years, although he resided for close to 12 years in one town—and with one ball club.

He broke into baseball in 1909 with the Burlington team, played the next season with Ottumawa in the Central Association and was bought at the end of that year by the Cinci Reds.

After two years and a half with the Redlegs he was sent to Louisville, partly because of his inability to hit. The St. Louis Browns, however, decided they could use him and grabbed him off at the close of the 1914 season. He caught 80 games the next season and from then on was the main backstop of the team until traded to Washington on June 18, 1925, for Mogridge and Hargrave in time to aid the Senators in capturing the A. L. pennant the second time.

Last season Manager Harris decided he could part with the veteran and let him go to New York. A short time after Hank joined the team Benny Bengough hurt his arm and Severeid stepped into the breach. Pat Collins was also nursing a bum wing at the time. Old Hank proceeded to catch good ball the remainder of the campaign and handled the catching in the world's series.

Ban Leaves Chicago On Health Journey

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Ban Johnson, temporarily retired president of the American league, was absent from Chicago today. At his home it was stated he had gone to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, to spend several weeks in an effort to regain his health.

It was because of his ill-health that American league magnates, in session here last Sunday, voted their veteran prexy an indefinite "leave of absence" and installed Vice President Frank Navin of Detroit in the presidential chair.

Johnson has refused to make any statement since the Sunday meeting but speculation continues as to whether the former American league head will ever again assume leadership of the junior circuit. The belief is general that Johnson's health is such as to preclude the possibility of his ever again being a dominant figure in baseball.

DENY 'JUNKING' OF SCHEDULES

Western Conference Officials to Hold Meet Friday.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Reports that 1927 western conference football schedules would be "junked" at the joint meeting of Big Ten university presidents, faculty representatives, coaches, directors of athletics, and alumni, set for Friday of this week, were vigorously denied today by Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner.

Major Griffith said it would be impossible at this late date to alter the schedule, even if there were any excuse for so doing, owing to the fact that all open dates have been filled with non-conference games. Any change in the Big Ten schedule now would tend to "scramble" the schedules of nearly all other big schools, it was pointed out.

This meeting, Major Griffith explained, was called at the suggestion of coaches and athletic directors who met here last November to map out the 1927 schedule. It was seen at that time such a meeting was necessary in order to establish closer harmony between the Athletic and Academic Departments.

The most important task facing the Friday gathering, according to the commissioner, is the mapping out of a standard program for the legitimate recruiting of athletes.

Elks Are Defeated By Salem; Damascus Trims Salineville

Two North County Squads Will Wind up Tonight, With Mullins at Columbiana and Quakers at Lisbon; Leaders Favored to Win.

POSSIBILITIES of a three way tie for first half championship honors in the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball League loomed strongly today as a result of the victory of the Salem Mullins Body five last night over the East Liverpool Elks, 38 to 32, on the Salem high school court.

The adage concerning the piece of pottery ware that went to the well once too often may be applicable in the case of last night's contest, the Elks' downfall coming after an unbroken string of 10 victories over all league opponents. Coming on the night following their strenuous battle with Columbiana here, the game probably proved a little too much for the lodgemen in face of the great game put up by Allen's north countians who played a far better brand of basketball than they displayed on the occasion of their appearance here.

While the Elks were losing at Salem, Damascus was winning from Salineville, 40 to 29, at Damascus, and driving ahead as a possibility in the pennant deadlock.

Whether the first half will wind up in a two-way tie of a three-cornered scrap depends upon the outcome of tonight's contests, the last of the half, when Salem will play at Columbiana and Damascus at Lisbon. Both Salem and Damascus are favored to win.

However, it is entirely possible that Manager Ray Adam may have an "ace in the hole" that may decide the issue in another namer, concerning which league officials are cognizant.

The third quarter in last night's clash did the damage after an even battle in the first two periods.

The Elks got off on their scoring drive before the Mullins passers, running up a lead of several points before the Salemites come through to tie it up at 9-9 as the first quarter neared an end. Another field goal apiece made the count 11-11 at the first intermission.

The Elks forged to the front again in the second quarter and managed to annex a three-point margin which they held when the half was called, the tally being 18-17 at this juncture.

Salem, in the third period, began to bang away at the hoop on long shot tries, with startling results. The Mullins quint in the first few minutes of the period, ran up a score of 28 to 21 and increased the margin to 32-23 when the one-minute rest period was called prior to the concluding lap. The Elks outscored their foes in the final quarter but the net results were insufficient to overcome the lead of the preceding stanza.

Wiffler, Salem high school's assistant athletic coach, who several weeks ago replaced "Red" Matticks at center, provided a far more capable man than Matticks. He led the Salem scorers with six field goals, the majority of them long chances.

It was up to Carl Wilson, Elks' forward, to pull the most sensational heave of the game. Wilson banged the ball almost three-quarters of the floor in the concluding quarter and chalked up two points on the attempt. Pusey and Wilde shared scoring honors for the losers, the former collecting five buckets and the latter four and two fouls. The two Salem forwards got through McConville and Anderson for only six two-pointers during the battle while Anderson came up to drop in three and several more close ones that rimmed the hoop and rolled out.

Approximately 125 East Liverpool court fans saw the game, going by special car and automobiles. They constituted a special cheering section, led by "Helmie" Davis.

TUNNEY PLANS TRIP ABROAD NEXT SUMMER

Sends Dudley Field Malone as Advance Agent.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. — Prominent Americans who will sail for abroad early this summer are the captain of the Leviathan and James Joseph Tunney, the well known heavyweight champion. The latter informed the writer today that he is seriously considering offers for a theatrical and exhibition tour of Germany, England and France and is so enamored of the idea that he is dispatching his barrister, Dudley Field Malone, to the scene to discover what he may.

Dudley or Deadley, as the boys seem to know him best, will sail on Saturday and he may be relied upon to discover all, including the uncharted box office.

The champion's tentative plans were outlined to me in some detail just before he left today on another buck hunt through the west. DENY 'JUNKING' OF SCHEDULES

Western Conference Officials to Hold Meet Friday.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Reports that 1927 western conference football schedules would be "junked" at the joint meeting of Big Ten university presidents, faculty representatives, coaches, directors of athletics, and alumni, set for Friday of this week, were vigorously denied today by Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner.

Major Griffith said it would be impossible at this late date to alter the schedule, even if there were any excuse for so doing, owing to the fact that all open dates have been filled with non-conference games. Any change in the Big Ten schedule now would tend to "scramble" the schedules of nearly all other big schools, it was pointed out.

This meeting, Major Griffith explained, was called at the suggestion of coaches and athletic directors who met here last November to map out the 1927 schedule. It was seen at that time such a meeting was necessary in order to establish closer harmony bebetween the Athletic and Academic Departments

The most important task facing the Friday gathering, according to the commissioner, is the mapping out of a standard program for the legitimate recruiting of athletes.

Elks Are Defeated By Salem; Damascus Trims Salineville

Two North County Squads Will Wind up Tonight, With Mullins at Columbiana and Quakers at Lisbon; Leaders Favored to Win.

POSSIBILITIES of a three way tie for first half championship honors in the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball League loomed strongly today as a result of the victory of the Salem Mullins Body five last night over the East Liverpool Elks, 38 to 32, on the Salem high school court.

The adage concerning the piece of pottery ware that went to the well once too often may be applicable in the case of last night's contest, the Elks' downfall coming after an unbroken string of 10 victories over all league opponents. Coming on the night following their strenuous battle with Columbiana here, the game probably proved a little too much for the lodgemen in face of the great game put up by Allen's north countians who played a far better brand of basketball than they displayed on the occasion of their appearance here.

While the Elks were losing at Salem, Damascus was winning from Salineville, 40 to 29, at Damascus, and driving ahead as a possibility in the pennant deadlock.

Whether the first half will wind up in a two-way tie of a three-cornered scrap depends upon the outcome of tonight's contests, the last of the half, when Salem will play at Columbiana and Damascus at Lisbon. Both Salem and Damascus are favored to win.

However, it is entirely possible that Manager Ray Adam may have an "ace in the hole" that may decide the issue in another namer, concerning which league officials are cognizant.

The third quarter in last night's clash did the damage after an even battle in the first two periods.

The Elks got off on their scoring drive before the Mullins passers, running up a lead of several points before the Salemites come through to tie it up at 9-9 as the first quarter neared an end. Another field goal apiece made the count 11-11 at the first intermission.

The Elks forged to the front again in the second quarter and managed to annex a five-point margin which they held when the half was called, the tally being 18-17 at this juncture.

Saler, in the third period, began to bang away at the hoop on long shot tries, with startling results. The Mullins quint in the first few minutes of the period, ran up a score of 28 to 21 and increased the margin to 32-23 when the one-minute rest period was called prior to the concluding lap. The Elks outscored their foes in the final quarter but the net results were insufficient to overcome the lead of the preceding stanza.

Wiffler, Salem high school's assistant athletic coach, who several weeks ago replaced "Red" Matticks at center, provided a far more capable man than Matticks. He led the Salem scorers with six field goals, the majority of them long chances.

It was up to Carl Wilson, Elks' forward, to pull the most sensational heave of the game. Wilson banged the ball almost three-quarters of the floor in the concluding quarter and chalked up two points on the attempt. Pusey and Wilde shared scoring honors for the losers, the former collecting five buckets and the latter four and two fouls. The two Salem forwards got through McConville and Anderson for only six two-pointers during the battle while Anderson came up to drop in three and several more close ones that rimmed the hoop and rolled out.

Approximately 125 East Liverpool court fans saw the game, going by special car and automobiles. They constituted a special cheering section, led by "Heimie" Davis.

Here's Speedy Relief From Bunions and Soft Corns

Mathews Cut Rate, Herche's Drug Store and J. D. Holloway Say Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflammation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your bunions may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields, or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing variose of swollen veins.

Mathews Cut Rate, Herche's Drug Store and J. D. Holloway and every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

Cromwell and Mussolini.
Goodbye, Bob.
He Won't Talk.
17,000 New Laws.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW compares Mussolini to the great Oliver Cromwell, and says British mockery of Mussolini is inspired by hypocricy and fear.

The British, according to Shaw, "did not dare call Mussolini's bluff at Corfu, and are clearly afraid of him."

If Mussolini is like Cromwell, there is good reason to be afraid of him. Cromwell being the only great soldier of semi-modern times that never lost a battle.

THE "bob" is going out. Those that have money abandon the bob because it is getting too common. Working girls that haven't much money give up the bob because it costs too much, takes too much time.

Women ought to wear both hair and skirts short, without being foolish about either, and will do so eventually. They ought to cut their skirts off below the knee, not above; cut their hair sensibly, so that a haircut might last a month at least, with a nice ribbon or old-fashioned round comb to hold it back. That's how women will arrange their hair and skirts some day, and they will look pretty and sensible.

C. W. NOE, 22 years old, ended his medical studies at the University of Wisconsin by committing suicide and promised to talk from the grave to a fraternity friend at 12 o'clock Monday and again next Friday.

He will not talk from the grave. Our talking is done here. What we do after we leave, we don't yet know, except as faith answers our questions. The young man should have used all of this life before moving on to another. No matter how dismal things may be today you never can be sure that they won't improve.

SENATOR BORAH says we made too many laws. This country will be "a republic in name, and a bureaucracy in fact," if we don't check the wholesale lawmaking machine.

Not all the laws are made in Washington. Forty-eight legislatures are busy. The new laws suggested here and there number about 17,000, a fantastic figure.

However, civilization itself, to say nothing of this glorious republic, is an experiment, in its infancy. Children try many things; all trying is useful. Even if they burn their fingers, that's useful. It teaches them to avoid fire.

SOME industrial stocks going down, railroad stocks climbing to new high prices was the program yesterday on the stock exchange. Somebody bought and sold nearly 2,000,000 shares.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE has put in few words the disagreement between this country and Mexico. We respect property rights of Mexicans here, and don't pass retroactive laws, confiscating United States property legally acquired by Mexican citizens. The president asks, "shall Mexico be allowed

JURY IS CALLED

Court Fight Aftermath of Paper Products Firm's Move.

Establishing a precedent in East Liverpool's municipal court, a claim for $10,000 damages was on file today, as a result of a cross petition by the Standard Porcelain company, of Leetonia, formerly of East Liverpool in a suit instituted by the American Paper Products company.

Allege Stocks Were Damaged.

The paper products company, through the law firm of Brookes & Thompson, recently sued the porcelain company for $175, alleged to be due as rent for a factory, which was operated in a part of the old Brown plant at the corner of Third and Walnut streets. An additional $25 was asked for the removal of rubbish and other material left when the company quit operations in East Liverpool last summer and moved to Leetonia.

The suit was to have been heard this week, but was postponed when the defendant filed a cross petition.

The porcelain company charges that while they were still occupying the plant, the wall and roof were removed and that as a result of a heavy rain storm stocks were badly damaged. It is also alleged that the gas to the plant was shut off, water pipes removed, electric and light and power and telephone lines were cut. A large quantity of finished products, clays and other raw materials are declared to have been rendered a total loss when the defendant company began the razing of the building.

Twelve Jurors to Hear Case.

The porcelain company is represented by Attorneys Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool; George T. Farrell, Lisbon, and Dever Grappy, Leetonia.

The city court ordinarily has jurisdiction in damage claims of not to exceed $1,500, but in the event of a cross petition the court can pass judgment upon larger sums.

Judge Hanley announced that the case would be heard by a jury of 12 persons.

FEAR U. S.-NICARAGUAN LIBERAL CLASH

SACASA SAYS MARINES AROUSE HOSTILITY IN SUPPORTING DIAZ ARMY

While Keeping Eye on Situation Below Rio Grande, American Government Continues Its Neutral Stand in Chinese Civil War in Which Military Movements Near Hangchow are Watched.

BATTLE ON STUPENDOUS SCALE WILL SEAL FATE OF SHANGHAI

British and Japanese Already Have Taken Steps Toward Defense of International City by Force of Arms, as Uncle Sam Stands by to Protect Lives and Property, But Hesitates to Join With Foreign Forces.

By JOHN PAGE.

Copyright, 1927, By International News Service.

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua, Jan. 26.—The danger of a clash between United States marines and liberal troops was pointed out today by Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, head of the liberal government.

Dr. Sacasa deplored the situation, but charged that the action of the marines in constantly extending neutral zones had aroused hostility. He declared that the Diaz government at Managua could not stand without American support and disclaimed any anti-American feeling on his own part.

"Hostility has been aroused by the action of the United States marines in following the constitutionalists and declaring neutral all the cities wrested from the Diazista army," said Dr. Sacasa.

"Such acts are making Nicaragua desperate. The situation is bad and is increasing in gravity. Creation of these neutral zones is robbing us of the places captured by us through force of arms."

Sacasa Will "Carry On."

Dr. Sacasa expressed the determination to carry on in spite of all difficulties. He added:

"I am convinced that the Diaz government would quickly fall should the American government withdraw its support and resume an attitude of neutrality."

Dr. Sacasa, after denying any anti Americanism referred to the United States, as his "second mother country."

Chinese Situation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The United States will continue its neutral stand in the Chinese civil war, it was strongly emphasized at the stat department today. But notwithstanding this attitude the government is intensely interested in the movement of two great Chinese armies near Hangchow, where a battle on a stupendous scale that will seal the fate of Shanghai is momentarily expected between northern troops under Chang Tso-Lin and Cantonese forces under Chang-Kai-Shek.

It has become obvious that this government's hope of averting a clash at Shanghai depends upon the outcome of the impending battle at Hangchow. Should Chang-Tso-Lin be defeated the

"Peaches" Nervous As She Resumes Witness Stand

Browning's 16-year-old Wife Tells of Contract With Syndicate for Stories in Newspaper.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

Clad in a blue silk dress and a blue cloche hat which set off her blonde hair and complexion becomingly, "Peaches" took the stand at 10:04 a. m. She wore a little ball watch suspended from her neck on a thin, gold chain.

"Peaches" seemed nervous as she took her place in the witness box. She had been on the stand for four hours yesterday and left it exhausted. She had painted Browning as a man of depraved tastes, and that his various idiosyncracies finally caused her nerves to break and she had to leave him.

Judge John E. Mack of Browning's counsel began his cross-examination.

Q. You spoke of a contract with a syndicate for stories printed about you. Is this the story (handing her a picture of a tabloid paper)? Is that your signature under the story "Why I Left Daddy Browning?"

While "Peaches" was identifying the newspaper stories, her mother, Mrs. Carolyn Heenan, came over to the witness stand and took a seat at her daughter's elbow. Mrs. Heenan said: "I want to be near Babe in case she breaks down again."

Browning was dressed immaculately in a blue suit and conspicuous blue and gold tie.

Mack repeatedly asked "Peaches" if this and that picture had been posed for "pursuant to your contract."

"Yes; it was," "Peaches" reiterated.

John Young Charges Neighbor's Barking Dog is Nuisance

According to the affidavit, prepared by City Solicitor Frank Hoover and signed by Young, Haskins is the owner of a dog which "frequently and continuously barks, howls and yelps in a loud manner contrary to the peace and dignity of the city."

The value of the estate was not given. The will was dated January 1, 1927 less than two weeks previous to the death of the deceased, which occurred on January 13. Her next of kin are seven cousins.

The statement did not disclose the nature of the proposals made by Great Britain, but pointed out that discussions still continue at Hankow and that the tests of the willingness of the Cantonese to accept a reasonable settlement is now being made.

VOTE LAND LAW ARBITRATION

Senate Calls Upon President to Act in Mexican Situation.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—President Coolidge had before him today the fact that the senate unanimously favors arbitrating the land law controversy with Mexico.

The vote on the Robinson resolution, advising the president to peacefully settle the dispute, afforded one of the rare occasions when the senate has solidly been in favor of something. The vote was 79 to 0. Republicans, Democrats, Insurgents, Protestants and Catholics, joined in registering an expression against armed conflict.

While there is nothing mandatory in the senate's action, as applied to the Coolidge-Kellogg policy, the unanimity with which the senate acted is expected to be not without effect in determining the future steps in administration policy.

President Coolidge is expected to take cognizance of the senate's action, even though he considers the resolution merely an advisory notice of senate opinion. This cognizance will be expressed, it is anticipated, either by means of a message to congress, similar in purport and expression to that which he recently sent concerning

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 26.—Spanning the entire breadth of the Pacific ocean in a few days is a new project of American aviators. From California to Hong Kong, China, with several—but not many—intermediate stops, a giant monoplane may soon wing its way.

All this has developed from plans made for a non-stop flight from San Diego to Honolulu. This has been scheduled for early in March, with Lieut. W. B. Wallace of the Marines' flying corps, and Lee Schoenhair, former army aviator, piloting a huge Fokker monoplane, now being constructed at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

Unbroken Stretch of Water.

A flight from California to Manila, in the Philippines, and Hong Kong, China, will follow in all probability, if the Honolulu jump is successful, military and naval aviators say.

Such a flight would be epoch-making. It would place China within four or five days of America.

The jump to Honolulu is looked upon as the chief hazard, for the ocean stretches 2,200 miles between San Diego and Diamond Head, in the Hawaiian islands—the longest single stretch of water between land ends on a route around the world's waterways.

The plane to be used in the Honolulu flight—larger than the one in which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole—will be tested during February. It will be flown across the continent by way of Washington and Detroit.

Speed 100 Miles an Hour.

"With our plane," says Schoenhair, "we expect to carry a disposable load of 6,800 pounds and, at the start, 950 gallons of gasoline, with a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour. Thus we should reach Honolulu in less than 24 hours."

No gear for floating the plane on the bosom of the Pacific ocean which saved Com. John Rodgers when his plane fell near Honolulu last year, will adorn the Schoenhair plane. Only a radio outfit will be available to call in a hurry for help.

As for cruising range, the Fokker will have safety margin of 1,400 miles more than the San Diego-Honolulu distance and will be capable of remaining in the air approximately 40 hours.

The race for Honolulu will be made under the racing rules of the National Aeronautical Association and the Federation Aeronautique International in an endeavor to smash the present world's record of 1,841 miles, established by the late Com. Rodgers' seaplane from San Francisco to a point near Honolulu.

However, the fact that the aviators will use a plane devoid of sea landing

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

My meditations were interrupted by the girl at my side.

"Mr. Quexter," she said, "you're not very entertaining, are you?"

"I beg your pardon," I said politely. "But conversation seems in the circumstances a little difficult."

"Of course," she exclaimed. "You don't even know yet who I am. My name is Patience, Patience Smith."

"An Englishwoman?"

"If you like," she replied.

"Well," said I, "what shall we talk about?"

"Anything you please," she said. "Let me see. You're a banker, Mr. Quexter? Suppose we talk about money, though I'm afraid it's not one of my subjects. I simply love money and that's nearly all I can say about it—except, of course, that it's the only thing that has any value at all in these days."

"What would you do for money?" I asked her, putting my thought brutally and without premeditation.

"Almost anything," she lightly replied; "so long as it wasn't simply too tedious—like marrying a rich man or keeping a bonnet shop. Let's talk about something else. You live in Paris, Mr. Quexter. Tell me about the latest plays."

To my surprise we were soon deep in a discussion of the modern theater, and I found that her knowledge was amazing. She knew well, not merely the playwrights well known to the educated public of Paris, London and New York—Ibsen, Brieux, Galsworthy, Shaw and the rest but the latest products of the continental stage. She talked to me of Pirandello, of the productions of Lugne Poe, of Zimmer, and Pitoeff. Of the past generation she admired especially the German Wedekind, the Austrian Schnitzler, and the Russian Tchekoff. Of the English stage she was mostly contemptuous.

I forgot the passage of time and was deep in a defense of Galsworthy, on whom she was unusually severe, when the car pulled up by the side of a moss-banked stream, and Baldasarre, the Japanese and the chauffeur unpacked a hamper, which proved to contain a most excellent light luncheon.

I lunched with Miss Smith, a little aside from the others. We were served by the Japanese who had been sitting in front of me in the car, and I noted that Marce and the chauffeur made no attempt to share our meal, but stayed apart, though they both kept me under careful observation.

It was difficult, over the informal and pleasant meal, prisoner as I was, and on the way to an unknown fate, to be really alarmed or tragical. I suppose, if the truth were told, I was so closely intrigued by my companion that I had little attention to spare for my peculiar situation. She was certainly the most stimulating person I had ever encountered. Moreover, she was utterably incomprehensible. Her moods seemed entirely inconsequent. Everything about her was contradictory. I could have sworn she had moved among people of leisure and authority. Nevertheless, she was the confederate of criminals and only a couple of hours ago she had forcibly drugged me.

I caught her looking at me oddly at times, and in place of the air of distant amusement she had first maintained, she was becoming frankly curious. After several unsuccessful efforts to entrap me into personal confidences, she began to question me directly.

"You are American," she said, "but you know England very well, and Paris, too."

By this time I was getting quite used to her sudden changes.

Her eyes ran lightly over me, and something in their expression made me feel absurdly self-conscious.

"You are a big man, Mr. Quexter."

"Six feet two," I said, as though answering an official examiner.

"I like big men," she said simply. She might have said in just that tone of voice that she liked Chopin or mayonnaise.

"Do you play cards?" she added, almost in the same breath.

"Sometimes," I acknowledged.

"Picquet?" she queried.

"Yes."

"I adore Picquet. Let's play a hand while they're packing up."

She spoke to the chauffeur, who went across to the car and returned with a pack of cards. A flat boulder served us for a table, and a moment later I was dealing the first hand.

"Four hands, I think," she said, "and double the first and last. That's the way I usually play."

"All right," I answered. "It's your major."

We played two games, and she beat me each time. She was certainly a good player.

After the second game, Baldassare came up and, bowing with clumsy deference, suggested that we should be moving. My companion nodded and stood up.

"In a moment," she said. "Go and start the car."

I picked up the pack and reshuffled it, putting into it the low cards which we had discarded when we had started to play, so that it included the whole number of fifty-two.

The girl had risen and stood beside me.

"Do you know any card tricks?" she asked.

"Only one," I replied, "and your pack would not be much good to you after that."

"Show it to me,' 'she insisted.

"If you will," I answered.

Taking the full pack, I got a good grip on it with both hands, and with a single jerk tore it across. It is an old trick, and I have often done it to amuse my friends. It requires more skill than strength, but simple as it was, it appeared to impress my companion.

As the cards ripped, she gave a little catch of the breath, and her eyes were frankly admiring.

"You are certainly strong,' she said.

We walked back to the car and were soon on our way again. My companion now seemed disinclined to talk. Accordingly I sat back and watched the scenery as it flowed past.

We were traversing a high tableland bounded by a low line of crags in the distance. It was still a beautiful day, and the wind of the previous evening had entirely fallen. I tried, I remember, to memorize the route as we rushed along, but this proved a difficult task. We did not go through many villages, and the few that we did pass, unlike those in France, had no placards announcing their names. I noticed that we were turning gradually in a long left-handed curve, and round a bend of the road we found ourselves running at the edge of a crest. The ground sloped fairly steeply away on our right, and I could look across a wide valley with a large city in the middle distance.

"What is that place?" I said idly to my companion.

"That is the land of lost content,
You see it shining plain,
The happy highways where you went,

she parodied with a mocking laugh.

I did not answer, but gazed at the town, striving to note some landmark by which I could recognize it. A tall church on a winding river were all that I could ditinguish with any clearness, and soon a belt of firs hid it again from view.

Half an hour later we passed through a small village and turned to the right up a long moss-grown carriage drive. A placard bore the inscription in French and German, "Dr. Kuntz's Private Home, Visiting Hours 2-5 Tuesdays."

We ascended the drive and stopped beside a large white house, built of stone, in a modern Swiss style, faintly reminiscent of Germany.

"At last," said Patience. "Will you come with me, Mr. Quexter?"

I got out of the car, Marce and the Japanese being obviously ready to deal with me promptly if I should hesitate.

The door was opened by a square-headed impassive servant in black livery, his hair cut en brosse—a very obvious German Swiss. We passed into a cool white hall, empty save for two low benches each side of the wall, and a small china vase containing a single spray of yellow broom. We crossed the hall in the wake of the butler.

Radium Makes Old Feel Young

Doctors Find New Tablet Form - ARIUM - Banishes Signs of Age

When that great French woman Scientist, Madame Curie, first startled the entire world by the discovery of Radium and its great curative powers, she may have had no idea of how extensively it might one day be used internally for the rejuvenation of men and women. Now, however, the development by Science of a simple, inexpensive means of administering true Radium in the highly concentrated form called ARIUM, immediately puts this miraculous power within easy reach.

To millions it may mean the banishing of disease and signs of old age—the rebuilding of sturdy, vigorous health and the prolonging of life by many, many years.

If you long for the return of youthful vigor, freedom from pains, aches and disease—if you want to literally take a new lease on life, you owe it to yourself to get a box of ARIUM from the nearest druggist now—start its use at once, and if you are not amazed and overjoyed at what happens in your own case, go back and get your deposit without trouble or question. Probably no such offer has ever before been made by anyone, but scientists are agreed that there has never before been such a product as ARIUM.

Register another directorial success for Monta Bell!

This sensational young director has turned out the best film of his short career in Marion Davies' "Lights of Old Broadway," a Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer, which soon will be seen at the Ceramic theatre.

It was not until about a year ago that the picture-goer first heard of young Bell. With the release of "Broadway After Dark" exhibitors, producers and film fans began to inquire who the director was.

The fact is he was a former publicity man of Charlie Chapin that Harry Rapf saw as a potential film director and gave him a chance. The chance was all he needed and Bell was well on his way to success with the release of hs first picture.

Before coming to Hollywood he was the editor of a Washington, D. C., daily newspaper and had been identified with several syndicates that specialized in featured stories. In that capacity he learned what constitutes a successful story.

When he came to Hollywood with Chaplin he was given a chance to assist in the making of "A Woman of Paris" and he made such brilliant suggestions that many critics gave him a large part of the credit for the success of the film.

Then Rapf, who is an essociate executive of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, gave him a chance at directing and put up the money out of his own pocket. With the release of the picture he was signed by the studio to direct a number of other films.

He directed "The Snob," "Lady of the Night" and "Pretty Ladies," and will direct more Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures in the future. Bell attributes his success as a director to his experience as a newspaper man and his ability to cut loose from red tape and film traditions.

"The Lights of Old Broadway" is Carey Wilson's screen version of Laurence Syre's stage success, "The Merry Wives of Gotham." The cast includes, besides Marion Davies, Conrad Nagel, Charles McHugh, Eleanor Gordon, Mathew Betz, Wilbur Higby Lawson, Frank Currier, Julia Swayne and George K. Arthur.

The Hague Opium Agreement

A number of years before the unsuccessful opium conferences at Geneva in 1924-5, there had been an international meeting at The Hague and an agreement upon a certain procedure. Article 9 of that agreement, to which the United States was a party, pledged the signers "to limit the manufacture, sale and use of morphine, cocaine and their respective salts to medical and legitimate uses only."

The United States has done a good deal toward carrying out that plan. But complete success of its work is made impossible by the failure of other countries to do their part. Our government believes that only a small part of the drugs manufactured here is diverted to illicit channels, yet the situation remains very bad because of the difficulty of keeping out smuggled narcotic drugs, readily obtained for that trade in other countries.

Rather shrewdly, but quite politely, this government addresses a diplomatic note to all the other nations signatory to the Hague Opium Convention of 1912, telling them of its own efforts, of the difficulties it has encountered and of the outside influences beyond its control. It asks if the other governments won't also make a frank statement of the existing situation in their countries, telling what they have done and what they are willing to do, even asking suggestions as to whether they think there is anything more that we can do.

The conferences at Geneva failed. Here is a real agreement which was excellent in itself, though never carried out. Why not, says Uncle Sam, make use of this old agreement right now to correct some of the more obvious evils of the narcotic drug trade? Then, maybe, other steps can be taken later on.

Child Labor In The States

When the proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution was up for ratification in the state legislatures, one of the chief arguments successfully used against it was the one that child labor regulation was a state matter and should and would be taken care of by the states.

Friends of child labor regulation, therefore, have been interested in checking up on the existing conditions in the states. A list of the facts of child labor in this country as they existed in August, 1926, has been published by the National Child Labor Committee.

At that time seven states did not require school attendance after the age of 14; nine states permitted the employment of children of 14 without evidence of ability to read; 18 states did not require certificates of physical fitness signed by an authorized physician for employment of any child under 16 years; in 12 states it was not unlawful to work children under 16 from nine to 11 hours a day; in 35 states is was not unlawful to employ children at 14 to work on scaffolding; 28 states did not prohibit children of 14 from working around explosives; 22 states permitted children at 14 to run elevators; 33 states allowed children from 14 to 16 to work on railroads; 17 states permitted children from 14 to 16 to oil, wipe and clean machinery in motion.

Anyone who regards those conditions as unsatisfactory should be interested enough to find out where his own state stands in the list. If its record is bad, the news should be spread, citizens should be interested and the legislature should be made to correct the situation.

Bringing History To Life

Another building has been added to the group of historical edifices at Sudbury, Mass., where Henry Ford is re-creating an early American community. This latest acquisition is the old school house once attended by the Mary whose little lamb followed her to school one day with such enlivening results.

The building was brought to Sudbury from Sterling. Some of the original stones of the foundation have been used. The interior has been reconstructed, following the original as closely as possible. It is to be used as a school, with a good teacher, up-to-date curriculum and pupils from the neighborhood. It is at the same time a happy preservation of a typical New England school house of the early days.

The Sudbury community is gradually becoming a most charming museum of early Americana. Instead of collecting antiques, constructing models and reproductions to be put in some city museum, Mr. Ford is making his "museum" a living thing, placed in the natural setting of the Massachusetts countryside. The Wayside Inn, beautifully restored, filled with authentic antiques, rich in historical suggestion, is a delight to every patriot who visits it. The caretakers and guides there are more intelligent, interested, well-informed than in many of the other historical shrines of New England.

It would be a fine thing if similar restorations could be made in other parts of the country. America has grown and prospered so fast that it has thrust aside and lost forever a good many things worthy of preservation.

The feminist movement seems to have been diverted into a weight-reduction campaign.

Every time there's an international crisis, we all learn a little more geography.

Grandma Advises The Flapper Daughter— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Mid-Victorians who are constantly kept gasping at the social gaucheries of this ill-bred metropolis are now observing the abortive taste of diners out. New York is seated on swivel stools and gulping food at lunch counters.

The stool counter lunch—known in Texas as 'riding the pony'—no longer caters to a clientele of chauffeurs and truck drivers. The new trade glides up in softly purring limousines wearing decollete gowns and silk hats quite unabashed.

Just as the penny arcade flowered into the symphony orchestraed million dollar movie palace so has the hole-in-the-wall dirty spoon restaurant become a gaudy entablature to Epicurean desires. Snug fortunes are spent to floss them up.

Such clumsily painted signs as "Eddie's Place," "Eats" and "Sam's Stand" have vanished. In their stead are highly polished brass tablets reading: "The Cock Tavern," "Ye Olde Chop Inn" and such. The decorative idea strive to be quaint.

In the windows are huge open fire places of cobble stone and oyster shell. Meat slowly sizzles on glowing spits. From nickle plated hooks alongside hang pink hams studded with cloves, dripping roasts, smoking lamb legs and skinned little pigs with bright red apples in their mouths.

A bluff looking white aproned attendant in chef's cap is on hand to carve and saw off selections. The counters are of rich brown mahogany and the paintings are Old King Coleish. The stools are cushioned and have slight nickle plated backs.

Draft near beer is served in sweating stone mugs. The food is robust and the sort shunned by the vegetarian. How long the sudden craze will last is at present problematical but just now all the quaint little places are packed to suffocation.

The waffle shop idea burgeoned for awhile with black mammies in ginghams and turbaned with red kerchiefs, turning the griddles in expansive windows. They looked inviting but few want waffles in warm weather and the season was too short for big profits.

Night club tables may now be secured through agency reservations. As a rule a night club, through sad experience, pays about as much attention to advance reservations as a society mother to her children. Too often customers make reservations, have two more and go some place else or to bed. At the new agency one pays the couvert charge in advance and thus is assured of a desirable table amid the dullness.

About the most distinctive feminine hand writing in Gotham is that of a rather ribald supper club hostess. Her letters to customers are like steel engravings and yet it is said she never went to school save for two years.

I am also told all executives in an extremely high powered organization are men born and reared in towns less than 5,000 population and not one ever went to college.

The second cafe waiter to wear glasses in New York during the past 15 years was observed the other evening. The first one was at old Delmonico's. There is an unwritten law that waiters are not to be bespectacled. The explanation is not clear. It seems a rather foolish restriction for as some one has wisely said—no one ever sees the waiter's face.

ONE OF THOSE HOUSEHOLD WORDS

After Julia Ward Howe died, a memorial service was held for her in a city on the Pacific coast. The members of the local literary group attended in a body to pay a tribute to America's most brilliant poetess.

The committee in charge of the affair asked a municipal official to preside. Now, the person chosen for this honor was a highly successful politician and he knew about bookmakers, but not much about books. At the proper hour he advanced to the front of the platform to inaugurate the exercises and introduce the chosen eulogist. Before the audience, which was large, he bowed low and spoke as follows:

"You're being here today, ladies and gents, in such large numbers shows the appreciation our great city has for good readin'. This gathering is a magnificent testimonial to the memory of a person whose familiar name is a household word in every home. I refer to the immortal author of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'—the late Julius Ward Howard."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Equipment of Homes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A survey of urban home equipment made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs shows that that great American institution, the bath tub, is not so universally in use in the town and city homes of this country as is popularly believed. Almost a third of the dwellings covered by the survey are minus this basic household equipment. In fact, a great many of the homes are minus various kinds of equipment that many people would think they could not get along without.

The federation is deeply interested in the betterment of the American home, and its officials believe that every home should have the maximum of modern conveniences and laborsaving devices. Before putting on a campaign to lighten the burdens of the average housewife, however, it was deemed necessary to ascertain just how the average housewife was situated in this respect and two surveys were projected—one of rural homes and the other of urban homes.

All told, there are approximately 21,000,000 urban dwellings in the United States. The communities covered by the survey numbered 228, with a total population of more than 32,000,000, and 6,096,399 dwellings and 7,911,630 families were included in the study. The communities were grouped as to population, those under 1,000; those of 1,000 to 2,500; 2,500 to 5,000; 5,000 to 10,000; 10,000 to 25,000; 25,000 to 50,000; 50,000 to 100,000; and over 100,000. More than half the communities studied were in the first two groups.

The community equipment was compiled as well as the home equipment, the first inquiry being as to water supply, and it was found that 83 per cent of the cities and towns had a public water supply, while 17 were dependent upon private wells. As to other essensials, 96.5 per cent of the communities had electricity; 37.2 per cent had gas; 60.8 per cent had water protection against impurities; 60.8 per cent had public sewer systems; 39.2 per cent had only private disposal of sewage; 31.7 per cent had public collection of garbage, ashes and trash, 11.2 per cent had private collection, and 58.8 had no collection at all; 96.2 per cent had public libraries.

Begins With Kitchen Sink.

Twenty-four different kinds of home equipment were listed in the questionnaries that were sent out, and it was found that the kitchen sink is the most common article, the returns showing that 83.9 per cent of the dwellings had that useful adjunct of the kitchen. Eighty two per cent of the dwellings had flush toilets; 71.3 per cent had wash basins; and 68.3 per cent had bath tubs.

In the matter of light, heat and the like, 80 per cent of the families enjoyed electric lights; 69 per cent had gas connections; 64.4 per cent had gas ranges; 33.1 per cent had gas water heaters; 7.9 per cent used gas lights; 2 per cent had electric ranges; and 56.5 per cent were provided with that decidely useful invention, the telephone.

Four articles are listed that are not thought of generally as home equipment—the automobile, the phonograph, the piano, and the radio—and they were possessed, respectively, by 55.7 per cent, 46.2 per cent, 40.4 per cent, and 24.1 per cent of the families.

Electric irons simplified work for 63.6 per cent of the households, while 34.6 per cent had electric vacuum cleaners; 28.3 per cent had stationary wash tubs; 23 per cent had electric washing machines; 4 per cent had electric sewing machines; 1.9 per cent had flat work ironers; 1.3 per cent had electric refrigerators; 0.8 per cent had incinerators; and 0.5 per cent had electric dish washers.

Having thus obtained a cross-section view of the American home, the federation of Women's Clubs will undertake to raise the standard by educational publicity and through cooperation with business and community interests. Merchants will be encouraged to make intensive seling drives on labor-saving household devices and housewives will be shown how using more and more of these devices will not only lighten their tasks, but will prove a sound measure of economy in the long run. Mrs. M. W. Barry, of College Station, Texas, will have general supervision of this work.

Huge Endowment to Be Raised.

At the recent meeting at the headquarters in Washington it was decided that the federation will raise an endowment fund of $5,000,000, the income of which will be used to finance the various activities of the organization. Heretofore the federation has been supported by a 10-cent per capita assessment annually on all the members of all the affiliated clubs. Considerable sums have been raised in this manner, but not enough to meet all the requirements and at times important opportunities for service have been lost because of a lack of funds.

Complete details as to how the endowment found will be raised have not been worked out as yet, but it is planned to have a separate drive in each state. Each state organization will retain one-half of the money raised in its jurisdiction. All these campaigns will be coordinated under the direction of an expert in money-raising drives. While $5,000,000 has been set as the desired objective an even larger fund will be welcomed and the national officers agree that there are abundant opportunities to use all the income that can be provided.

The work of the federation is divided under eight heads—American citizenship, the American home, education, fine arts, international relations, legislation, press and publicity, and public welfare.

One of its most ambitious projects is a fight on illiteracy. First an illiteracy survey will be made, covering a typical county in each state, and then the club women will undertake to wipe out illiteracy in each of those counties as the beginning of statewide campaigns. National educators

LYON SEEKS SCREEN WIFE

Star in Title Role of Feature Film at American.

Ben Lyon, who is featured in the title role of "The Prince of Tempters," now at the American theatre, is said to have declared himself in favor of a member of the acting profession as a helpmeet. Ben hasn't named any particular young lady of the silver sheet as his prospective, but according to a recently published interview the star has recorded many reasons why his wife will be selected from the business in which he has become famous. However, the same interviewer advises the fair admirers of Ben not to take his declaration too seriously but wisely pointing out that many a young man has had very decided views on the subject of matrimony only to fall in love with some one directly opposite in type to his beau ideal.

are hopeful of striking results from this work.

Mrs. Jonn D. Sherman, of Colorado, has been president of the General Federation for more than two years now, and during her incumbency it has made a remarkable growth. There are now more than 16,000 clubs affiliated with the national organization, and it has been demonstrated that when they all get in motion along a given line or to a common end, the country discovers speedily that there is something going on.

Fifty-eight of the affiliated club are composed of English-speaking women in various other countries of the world. These clubs are not restricted to English or American women, but the members must be able to speak English. Some of them are notable organizations, the American Women's Club in Paris, for example, having a membership of more than 1,100.

The federation dates back to a meeting of club women called by the Sorosis, of New York, known as "the mother of the clubs," in 1889. It was chartered by a special act of congress in 1901.

This Simple NATURAL Remedy Protects the Whole Family

THAT little stab in the small of your back when you get up from your chair. That tired feeling in your arms and legs when bed-time comes. These are "red lamps"—warning signals. They mean just one thing—a sluggish liver. You need Nature's own remedy, Dillingham's Plant Juice, compounded from just those things that Nature grows, and nothing else. It will gently stir up your tired liver and bowels and get them working once more—smoothly, regularly and naturally.

For over thirty years Plant Juice has been safeguarding the health of thousands of families. Mrs. Cora Droney of Rochester, N. Y. writes:

"For the last twenty years I have suffered from awful stomach trouble. I had awful cramps through my stomach, and I have been troubled with headaches for a long time. I could not sleep, and would get up feeling tired, without any ambition for anything. Right after the first few doses of Plant Juice, I could see it was helping me; I kept on taking it and now my headaches are nearly all gone. I can sleep the night through, and feel much more rested. I certainly feel better in every way."

The first bottle starts the good work—the second carries it on—cleaning out the aches and pains and replacing tiredness with brightness and vim.

Driverless Machine Hurdles Curb on Kountz Avenue.

ENGINE RUNNING

Crash Occurs as Harry Wood is Delivering Milk.

While the driver was busy delivering milk along the Kountz avenue hillside this morning at 4:40 o'clock, a Reo truck, owned by the Crockery City Ice and Products company of East Liverpool, which had been parked on the East Liverpool-Wellsville road, started off on a lone-handed trip over the curbing and stopped a few minutes later at the bottom of the hillside with its nose buried in the ditch alongside the westbound street car tracks a short distance east of Silver Switch.

The truck was so close to the westbound rails that street cars were forced to operate over a single track route from the top of the Jethro hill to the Silver switch cross-over until 9 o'clock this morning when the machine was pulled out.

Harry Wood, the driver, was delivering on his route in the Kountz avenue section and left the truck, with engine running, parked on the roadway.

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — The Lomen brothers, of the Lomen Reindeer and Trading Corporation, of Nome, Alaska, hold the only regularly bought-and-paid-for title to Wrangell Island, but the soviet government of Russia holds the island itself.

CARL J. LOMEN

Wrangell Island is no farming country.

It's as cold a bit of land-scape as there is on earth. It lies in the Arctic Ocean, about 100 miles north of the Siberian coast and 400 miles northwest of Bering Strait, well on its way to the North Pole.

Yet Russia considered it well worth grabbing and the Lomens emphatically want their island back.

Despite its climate, Wrangell Island has its good points.

It's a great place for furs. Its thirty-four or five hundred square miles will support a lot of reindeer. Its waters are alive with fish. Walruses by the thousand make their headquarters along it coast.

Most important of all, it's on the aerial main line, from nearly everywhere to almost everywhere else, across the North Pole. From the British Isles to Japan, for instance, is too far for a plane to hop over the pole, but it can do it nicely with a stop at Wrangell.

When trans-polar flying becomes the rage, Wrandell Island will be the most important way station on the route.

"It's valuable," said President Carl J. Lomen of the Lomen brothers company, in Washington the other day, "for its fur and its fish and its reindeer pasturage, but nobody can estimate what it will be worth, as aviation develops, as a 'pied a terre' for planes bound over the top of the world.

"What's Malta?" continued Lomen. "Just a little rock in the sea. As an island, not of much account. But strategically, it's the naval key to the Mediterranean. That's what Wrangell will be to Arctic aviation."

So when Vilhjalmar Stefansson, hard up at the time, offered to sell the island to the Lomens in 1923, they paid him some thousands for it and considered that they'd made a good buy.

It was a maverick island when Stefansson roped it. A Canadian, he stamped it with the British brand. The Lomens, Americans, rubbed this out and re-branded it with the stars and stripes.

But the Russians actually got to it before the Lomen did.

The Lomens had an ordinary boat, which had trouble with the ice. The Russians used an ice-breaker, which crashed right through. They took off Charles Wells, a white American Eskimos whom the Lomens had acquired as colonists from Shefansson, when they bought him out. They also appropriated $10,000 of the Lomens' furs.

Wells and his Eskimos next turned up at Vladivostock, Wells, according to the Russians, was sick.

"Unless something's done pretty quick," urged Carl Lomen upon the state department, "Wells will die. Eskimos tell no tales."

But the state department couldn't do anything, because it never had recognized the soviet government. Wells accordingly died. The Eskimos were deported to China and subsequently got back to Alaska. They won't know exactly what did happen, as Lomen predicted they wouldn't.

Wrangell Island has been visited several times since Baron Wrangell looked for it but didn't find it in 1821, but nobody ever bought it for cash until the Lomens did. Now Russia has gypped them out of it, and until the state department recognizes the Moscow government, they can't do a thing.

YOUTH SEEKS TRUTH, ADVICE TO CHURCHMEN

Rev. R. W. Ustick's Committee Reports at Columbus.

PASTORS' MEET

Church Urged to Heed Young People's Views.

Pollyanna and Prince Charming are passing out of the picture, and in their stead the church must see young men and young women who demand to know and discuss relationship of life, and insist upon adventuring into economics and conventional social conduct, it was contended in Columbus before a thousand pastors attending the eighth annual conference of Ohio pastors, in the report of the committee on "The Church and Our Youth."

Rev. R. W. Ustick, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, of Wellsville, who is attending the pastors' meet, is a member of the youth committee.

"The church must deliver to youth from her pulpit," the report declared, "the knowledge of the social, sexual and spiritual relationships of life, as these are related to Christian and more development.

"She must so adjust her social program as to provide in the church, a place of expression for ideals of youth as they are related to physical and mental and social activity.

"The church must recognize its traditional functions and its plans of management in so far as it may be necessary to give the voice of youth a place in directing church activities and in planning her service.

"The task of the church today, as it is related to the ideals of youth, is that of inspiring them to use the weapons that modern inventions, and the spirit of freedom and familiarity, have placed in their hands.

"Youth's trouble today," the committee reported, "is that they have been thrown into water over their heads and most of them don't know how to swim, and even if they could, most of them are not sure what course they would take. The flood that has struck them is greater than any experienced by previous generations, and it has struck so suddenly that few people of the older generation have been able to help as yet in figuring out the way to the shore or the means of getting there."

The committee's report also included a reference to discussions of economics, communism and socialism, and questioned "the peculiar tendency of our day to see danger where none exists.

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't SHOW!

There's a way to keep your hair just so, without any of that objectionable, "plastered-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-dampened towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and its beautiful lustre!

Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff! Dissolves every bit of it. Puts scalp in the pink of condition. Invigorates hair and hair-roots. Why use anything else?

After the 'Flu' is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such cases, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debiliated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Careless Washing Spoils Children's Hair

Any child can have beautiful hair—healthy and luxuriant. It is simply a matter of shampooing.

Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the real life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright.

While children's hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, fine young hair and tender scalps cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why thoughtful mothers everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather which rinses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust and dirt.

It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LEGISLATURE CONSIDERS BAN ON SUNDAY AMUSEMENT

BILL IN HOUSE HITS DANCING AND SKATING

Measure Bans Entertainment to Which Admission is Charged.

HILL IS SPONSOR

Plan Survey of Salaries of State Employes.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.—Question of banning Sunday amusements is scheduled to come up in the house this afternoon for consideration.

A bill, introduced by Representative H. E. Hill, Marion county, decrees that no permits shal be issued for any public dance, roller skating, or like entertainment to be given on Sunday.

The bill, which comes up for second reading and reference to committee, defines the terms "public dance, roller skating, or like entertainment," as meaning "any dance, roller skating or like entertainment, to which admission can be had by payment of a fee, or by purchase, possession or presentation of a ticket, or in which a charge is made for refreshments, or for caring for clothing, or other property, or any other dance to which the public generally may gain admission, with, or without, a payment of a fee."

Compensation Act Unit Inquiry.

Proposal that a survey of salaries of state employes be made by a joint legislative committee, consisting of five senators and five house members, is contained in two senate joint resolutions and one house joint resolution up for action today.

A resolution by Senator J. N. Ackerman, Cleveland, provides for a complete investigation of the compensation and duties of state employes in all state departments, commissions, offices, bureaus, and educational and correctional institutions and for submission of a report and recommendations to the present legislative session.

Resolutions by Senator Maude C. Waitt, Cleveland, and Representative Clara W. Derr, Cleveland, are identical, calling for an immediate survey relative to the adequacy of salaries paid employes who administer the workmen's compensation act and other employes of the state department of industrial relations. The probing committee would be authorized to adjust salaries at least to the extent of meeting the advance in the prices of necessities since 1914, and to prepare a scale of "fair and adequate salaries" for each position of employment.

Purpose of Ackerman Resolution.

The announced purpose of the Ackerman resolution is "to standardize and consolidate positions and establish schedules of compensation in conformity with the duties and responsibilities involved."

The Ackerman resolution declares that "there are more than 8,000 positions in the state service with a salary range of from a few hundred dollars to $10,000 per annum" and that, because of "existing inequalities," there is a need for the standardization of salaries to meet changing economic conditions."

Other measures pending in the legislature today are:

In the Senate.

By Senator Davis Johnson, Fulton county, a joint resolution providing for submission to Ohio voters of a proposed amendment to the state constitution permitting an accused person to waive indictment by a grand jury and to stand trial without indictment.

By Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, providing for abolishment of the fee system and placing justices of the peace, mayors and constables on salaries.

By Senator E. Lefevre, Athens county, requiring Ohio State Institutions to buy Ohio-mined coal.

In the House.

By Representative D. S. Ingalls, Cuyahoga county, prohibiting mayors from retaining fees and decreeing that all fees shall be paid direct into the municipal treasury.

By Representative J. S. McKinley, Franklin county, providing for perpetual state auto license tags with renewal inserts of numerals to be furnished annually.

By Representative Osa Penny, Montgomery county, prohibiting public hearings of divorce suits.

First Bill Passed.

The first bill to pass either the house or the senate this session is that of Senator C. L. Shafer, Van Wert county, permitting villages to cede old village cemeteries to townships for purposes of maintenance. The senate passed the Shafer bill by a vote of 33 to 0 late Tuesday.

The senate judiciary committee, it was announced, has postponed action on the bills by Senators Bender and N. P. Johnson, Mahoning county, seeking to restrict activities of village mayors and justices of the peace to their respective bailiwicks, until after another public hearing is held at 7:30 p. m., February 2.

The Republican senatorial majority, during a caucus late Tuesday, it was announced, agreed to give Governor Vic Donahey control of the state utilities, industrial and tax commissions during the next two years by confirming his appointment of Democrats to two-year and four-year terms.

The Republican senators, however, decided, it was stated to hold up the governor's appointment of Republicans to six-year terms on these commissions. Thereby making it possible for the next governor to obtain control of them.

Two Bills Approved.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.—Bills allowing the use of photostatic copies in the county recorder's office and to allow county sheriffs only the sum which they expended for food for prisoners today were favored by the senate committee on county affairs, which voted to recommend their passage. Both bills were introduced by George H. Bender, Cleveland.

to confiscate Mexican property legally acquired by United States citizens?"

Senator [illegible] York asks the senate "to banish hypocrisy from American life by repealing the prohibition amendment." Republican senators know that Senator Wadsworth was beaten because he opposed that Eighteenth amendment. They don't want to be beaten, so they won't try to repeal it. They fear the prohibition question more than poison ivy, or rattlesnake.

Land Law Arbitration

Nicaragua, or by the publication of a formal statement, setting forth the fundamentals of the Mexican problem from the White House viewpoint. Such a message, addressed either to congress or to the public generally, would simply put the administration's case before the country.

Mexico Seeks Settlement.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Unofficial reports that Mexico has a suggestion to offer the United States anent arbitration of the dispute over the Mexican oil and land laws were in circulation today, following the receipt of dispatches concerning the action of the United States senate in announcing in favor of arbitration.

The action of the senate was received here with a great deal of satisfaction and it was reported that when given the proper opportunity Mexico would have a proposal to make.

There is no doubt but what Mexico is anxious to bring the dispute to a point where eventual settlement is certain, for already there has begun a curtailment of oil production and further reduction is anticipated.

Reduction of production affects not only the investments of the companies concerned but also raises a serious problem for the Mexican treasury. One sixth of Mexico's annual income is received from petroleum taxes and any restriction of these taxes is immediately felt.

Non-stop Flight

apparatus may work to place any record made in some other category, but this will be decided by the N. A. A. in Washington.

Wing is Three Feet Thick.

Aeronautical experts concerned with the flight say that only two types of planes are capable of furnishing both the necessary speed and carrying-power to make such a journey, the Fokker and the Sikorsky, the former of which is being equipped with a special type of wing over three feet in thickness at the fuselage.

Schoenhair is financing the flight.

Schoenhair, a native of Parkersburg, Ia., learned to fly with the military aviation units here during the war. He chose North Island for his take-off field because of combined weather conditions and mechanical facilities, made possible by the presence of government air shops.

The civilian flier has been insured for $100,000 for the flight and the plane for its value—$60,000—for the flight across the United States.

Westward, it will wing its way—on a journey none has yet completed. But with marine and civilian combined experience, the aviators hope to bring new laurels to American aviation.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—After an irregular opening, in which the advances and declines in the industrial and railroad stocks were about evenly divided, the market rallied under the impetus of brisk short covering, and recoveries of a point or two were inaugurated in the leading stocks.

Shorts were caught napping in United States Steel when the record-breaking quarterly earnings statement for the final quarter of 1926 was made public after Tuesday's close, disclosed the very profitable earnings operations of the big corporation at the end of the year. Though steel common made a very tardy response to the statement, the industrial stock list as a whole showed the effect of hasty short covering.

Simultaneously with reports that the Van Swearingens and other railroad magnates were discussing railroad mergers with a view to prompt announcement of their plans in the greater Nickel Plate merger, active buying was resumed in Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Western Maryland and other railroad stocks with merger possibilities. New Haven registered a strong comeback, while Erie first preferred was in demand above 56 in anticipation of the inauguration of dividends on this stock.

The motor stocks and the oils responded with higher prices to speculative buying and short covering, though the rallies were half-hearted and mostly fractional. Stocks of the copper and oil companies with Mexican property holdings were firm in active trading. Radio corporation and Timken Roller Bearing continued their brilliant forward moves, while Baldwin Locomotive and a few other speculative favorites gained a point or two.

Marines Arouse Hostility

victorious Cantonese are expected to sweep down upon Shanghai, making necessary the defense of the international city by force of arms.

The British and the Japanese already have taken unmistakable steps toward defending the city, the former having under way a "Shanghai defense force" consisting of almost 20,000 men.

No Plans for Common Defense.

Meanwhile, though it is virtually certain that it will be drawn into the fight, the United States remains undecided as to whether it will join in a common defense with the other powers. The administration has been hoping against hope that such a step would not become necessary, and has drawn no plans, as far as could be ascertained today, to co-operate with the other powers. The only public pronouncement in this regard has been the White House statement that "we will do the best we can" there to protect American lives and property.

The futility of attempting to retain the foreign concessions in Shanghai by military force without a consequent widespread loss of lives is again being emphasized here. The millions of Chinese who live in or near the international settlement would undoubtedly take part in any mob violence that the Nationalist agitators may inspire. To successfully defend the city, then, it would be necessary to drive out these natives even at the cost of a wholesale massacre.

It is considered here that nothing short of overwhelming defeat will keep the Cantonese from Shanghai, the second most important objective in their drive toward complete conquest of the country. The city has the richest customs port in China and it controls the entrance to the Yangtze valley and as such is of great military importance to the southerners who now control most of the valley.

Colds

One of the world's largest laboratories perfected a way to end colds. It combined a number of modern discoveries. That way proved itself so efficient, so quick, so complete that we paid $1,000,000 for it.

That way is called HILL'S. It checks a cold in 24 hours. It ends the fever, stops the headache. It opens the bowels, tones the entire system. And without any ill effects. As a result, one usually feels better than before the cold began.

Millions now employ it. When they learn its results they keep it ever on hand. Then a cold rarely gets started.

Here is all-in-all for colds—the best modern science knows. Things will change tomorrow if you take it now. Go start it without delay.

Gov. Donahey Calls For Senate Action On Leonard's Name

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—Governor Vic Donahey today announced his decision not to send any more appointments to the Ohio senate until his appointment of Wellington T. Leonard, Mansfield Republican, as a member of the state industrial commission for a six-year term, has been confirmed, or rejected.

"I am well within my right to demand this courtesy, for one thing," declared the governor, "and, for another, the action of the senate would have a bearing on other appointments in the future."

Donahey sent Leonard's appointment to the senate more than a week ago. The senate deferred action on the appointment, Republican leaders explaining that the postponement was for the purpose of "giving further consideration" to it.

Fort Worth Church Plans Services for Pastor.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 26.—"A victory for prayer" was the way the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Baptist minister, today characterized his acquittal of the charge of murdering Dexter E. Chipps, lumber broker in his Fort Worth study, last July 17.

Beyond the laconic tribute to the devotion of his congregation of 8,000 members of the First Baptist church and expressions of joy, Rev. Norris was silent today.

"My heart is too full of joy to say anything," he said. "The verdict of these twelve good men is the answer of 12 God-fearing men to the conspiracy of the powerful clique in Fort Worth and the persecution to which I have been subject since the start of this trial."

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 26.—Prayer services will be held in the First Baptist church here tonight for the pastor, Rev. J. Frank Norris, who last night was acquitted by a jury in Travis county district court at Austin.

FLOOD OF BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

State Lawmakers Busy as Initial Session Comes to Close.

With the close of the initial session of the legislature today at Charleston the number of bills presented in both houses is expected to fall short of record sessions. When both houses adjourned last night the house had a total of 434 proposals, while those introduced in the senate numbered 275.

Several proposed amendments to the constitution were included in yesterday's proposals, one of them by Senator Willis designed to permit election of two circuit judges in which the population exceeded 45,000. Senator Hugus also presented one which would allow more than one judge to a circuit, but instead of fixing a number would leave that to the legislature while Senator Wilkin proposed to add to the circuit court provisions of the constitution a section giving these courts sole jurisdiction in probate matters and providing for probate commissioners for each court.

Another move in the senate's health department legislative program was taken when Senator Smith, of Marion county, introduced a bill to give that department supervision over tourist camps, and the same senator also introducted a bill which would regulate barbers and create a board of examiners for them. Senator Devore introduced a bill to establish a state racing commission and Senator Willis presented one that would call for a five cent levy on each $100 of property to be laid by the state and reserved for the expenditures of West Virginia university. Senator Helmick introduced a bill which would give the public service commission authority to certify whether bus routes were necessary before licenses were granted, and which would also have that body fix rates and schedules of service.

Senator Hallanan introduced a bill calling for establishment of a new tuberculosis sanitarium, the site to be determined by the state board of control, but with the provision that it be south of an east and west line drawn through the town of Flatwoods.

Free text books continued a favorite subject for bills in the house of delegates, one such proposal being made by Delegate Lantz, in addition to several already in the house hopper.

Delegate Massie attacked the textbook problem from another angle in a bill which would standardize textbooks in the schools, copyright them and forbid changes for 15 years.

SECRET SINS AND PRIDE HIT BY EVANGELIST

Dr. Knapp Speaks at Methodist Protestant Meeting.

SONG SERVICES

Expect Record Attendance at Sunday School Next Sunday.

"Christianity makes and contributes the greatest freedom possible for mankind" declared Dr. W. S. Knapp, Westerville evangelist, in his second sermon of a series of meetings at the Methodist Protestant church last evening. "It is the abundant life," he explained, "that is shorn of all sinful bounds."

That churches frequently were shortened in their intended beneficent effects because many members were under the domination of pride and secret sins, he averred. "Such cannot be possessed of the overflow which has its effect upon those we touch."

Following the preliminary song service the large marimba, was utilized for the first time by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Vinaroff. The instrument made an impressive appeal.

Placing 303 as the expected quota of attendance at the Sunday school next Sunday, Mr. Vinaroff emphasized the need for arriving five minutes before starting time by singing, accompanied by Mrs. Vinaroff, "We Shall Go to Sunday Sunday School at 9:45" to a familiar tune. Those not present last Sunday were adroitly made to sing the new number alone. His evening solo was "Pray Without Ceasing; Pray Through."

"The Lost Axe" will be Dr. Knapp's subject for this evening. "If Dr. Knapp was a regular pastor he should in my opinion delive this discourse every two months to his congregation," Mr. Vinaroff commented.

Twenty minute prayer services by both men and women, Rev. Mr. Dimit announced will precede each service during the campaign, the former assembling in the Young Men's and the latter in Mrs. Risinger's class rooms.

The invocation was made by Rev. John Spencer, of New Cumberland, W. Va., and the benediction given by Rev. A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the Baptist church of this city.

Children will assemble at 4 o'clock this afternoon for initial choral practice preparatory to their appearance with new songs on Saturday evening.

"Bring One" night will be celebrated this evening when every one attending is expected to be accompanied by another person.

Utilizing the story of the healing of the woman bound down by illness for 18 years as his text, Dr. Knapp declared that the acceptance of Christ loosed the human soul from bondage, giving it superlative freedom and an overflow of life that affects for good persons about it.

He affirmed the duty of Jesus stood despite all efforts of present and past opponents to make of him simply a man a bit wiser than all others who had ever lived. Likewise he held that his miracles, despite the same opposition to their credibility, had never been disproved. 'The supernatural of the miracles and of religion still stands in there impregnability," he maintained. "Jesus Christ was God manifested in the flesh, the Almighty's son as man is not and can never be."

"There are church stewarts who sometimes get stewed; Sunday school teachers who expatiate on the beauties of the redeemed life without saving souls; members who would not attend church were they not afraid to go to hell and who probably will anyhow unless they loose themselves from the bounds of sin. We should count that day lost in which no part of the word of God has been absorbed."

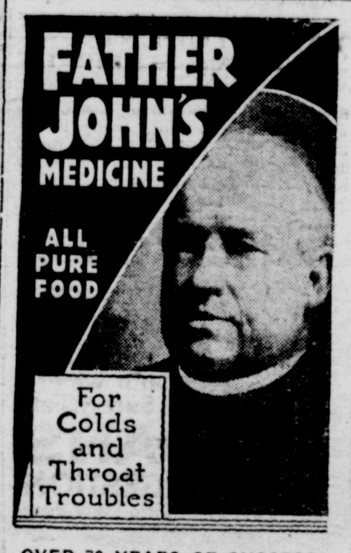
Dr. Knapp averred sin was too strong a force for any human to combat alone.

Mid-Week Services.

Pastors will be in charge of the usual mid-week prayer services tonight in the Chester churches.

Leave for South.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hallstrom, of Neptune avenue, have left for an extended trip to the east and south. They will visit with friends in Vero and Jacksonville, Fla.



OVER 70 YEARS OF SUCCESS.

PERSONALS

Mrs. W. B. Shafer, 51 Mound St., Dayton, Ohio, had been subject to a bronchial cough for a year when she tried Father John's Medicine. Before she had taken one bottle of Father John's the cough entirely disappeared.

For the past two and a half years Mr. William B. Maden, Chester, Penn., suffered with a continuous hacking, bronchial cough that he finally overcame with one bottle of Father John's Medicine.

James J. Coen, 430 Fenimore Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has been using Father John's Medicine for the past five years and finds it very beneficial in relieving attacks of bronchial colds to which he is periodically subject.

When her baby, Wanda, two and a half years old, had the whooping cough, Mrs. O. Marian, 161 Henry Street, New Haven, Conn., gave her Father John's Medicine and found it more helpful than anything she had used.

WEIRTON PLANTS NEAR COMPLETION

The Weirton Steel company will finish the $20,000,000 building project, which they started a few years ago, during 1927. The completion of the new strip steel mill and docks at Weirton will about wind-up the program. A great deal of construction was started in 1926 and will be completed during the current year.

The Weirton Steel company has had a rapid rise from near obscurity to one of the largest self-contained steel producing units in the country. Recent completions at the big plant include a new blast furnace capable of turning out 800 tons of pig iron in 24 hours. Ore bridge and car dumper for the handling of inbound shipments of iron ore. A 49 [illegible]en coke furnace and three open hearth furnaces with a rate capacity of 200 tons each per day.

All of the equipment of the Weirton Steel company is of the most modern kind. When fully completed it will be undoubtedly one of the biggest and finest units in the country.

FARM BUREAUS TO STAGE DRIVE

Membership Campaign is Outlined by State Federation.

Three silver loving cups are being offered to winners of a contest between the 25 county farm bureaus taking part in the present membership campaign, according to word received from the Ohio farm bureau federation by L. R. Whinnery of Salem. Whinnery represented Columbiana county at a meeting of representatives of these 25 counties at Columbus Saturday. The cups are offered by the federation on the basis of membership secured in each county.

The county farm bureau which signs the largest percentage of the farmers of the county as farm bureau members will be awarded the first cup, according to the rules. The second will go to the county group securing the greatest increase over its old membership and the third to the county farm bureau securing the largest number of members. No two cups will be given to any one county farm bureau, according to the rules. A cup will also be awarded to the township signing the largest number of members.

The Mahoning county farm bureau has challenged the Columbiana county farm bureau to a contest in the membership work which will be staged in February. The points considered are completion of the soliciting, percentage of prospects signed up and the percentage of membership as compared to the present membership. The board of directors of the losing county must individually pay for an oyster supper to be given at Salem to the board of the winning county. Stanley Howard is manager of the Mahoning campaign and L. R. Whinnery is manager in Columbiana county.

County Farmers Will Benefit by Reduction In Traffic Rates

Through the efforts of the traffic department of the Columbus office of the Ohio farm bureau federation, reduced rates on fertilizer will soon be authorized for shipments into Columbiana county.

This reduction in new tariffs was explained to farm bureau service managers at a meeting of these men held in the Summit county court house at Akron last Saturday, it was announced today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of this county.

The new rates, however, will not be effective for 120 days, and will not apply to shipments on fertilizer that will be shipped into the county during the next three months.

C. S. Long, farm bureau federation traffic manager, has been at work on this reduced rate problem for about a year, and the idea was accepted by the Carriers' association very recently.

O. P. Neutzel, state service manager for the farm bureau, also spoke at the Akron meeting.

The meeting at Akron followed a general conference of township purchasing agents of this county held at Lisbon last week, when plans and policies of the purchasing agents for the current year were discussed.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL DENIED

A motion for a new trial has been overruled by Judge Charles N. Moore in the case of Earl Ritchie, constable at Salem in his $25,000 damage action against Lucretia Oltean, of Salem, wherein a jury returned a verdict for $10,000 in favor of the plaintiff in common pleas No. 2 January 11. The original action was filed by Ritchie against the defendant January 21, 1925.

The plaintiff has leave to file a bill of exceptions within 40 days after the motion for the new trial was overruled.

COUNTY HIGHWAY TO BE IMPROVED

At a scheduled hearing for damages as a result of the proposed surfacing of the Salem-Hanover road in Butler and Hanover township no one appeared before the county commissioners Monday afternoon. This situation removes all obstacles from the improvement of this north-south county highway.

Bids have been asked for the surfacing of this road, and they will be opened by the county commissioners next Monday afternoon.

SPRUCEVALE ROAD GRADING PLANNED

A steam shovel is to be placed on the grading of the Sprucevale road in St. Clair township this spring, but the grading will be done under the direction of the county commissioners and County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk. A shovel was placed on this road several months ago, but its work was stopped because of the slow progress it made and the excessive cost to the county. At a meeting of the commissioners Monday afternoon it was announced that all future work on this road would be done under the direction of a representative of the county.

Condition Improving.

Mrs. Gerald Eells, West Lincoln way, who for several days has been in a critical condition in the Salem Clinic hospital, Salem, with acute nephritis, is reported improving.

BOY AWARDED DAMAGE VERDICT

Jack Seeds, a 13-year-old news boy of Salem, was given a verdict for $350 damages by a jury in the common pleas court here on Tuesday against Sylvanus A. Worman of that city for injuries he received on the 13th of last October, when Worman ran into him as he was riding his bicycle delivering newspapers.

The boy was riding west on Cleveland avenue in Salem, and when he neared the intersection of Highland avenue Worman drove his car into the street at a high and, it is said, a dangerous rate of speed. It is said he failed to look toward the east as he drove into the street or he would have seen the boy in time to have avoided hitting him, and when the car and bicycle came together with a crash the boy was hurt and the bicycle was demolished.

Young Seeds sustained an injured knee and hip, and lacerations.

EDWARD FUNERAL HELD TUESDAY

John Edwards, aged 59 years, a brother of James Edwards of Lisbon, died suddenly at his home in Omaha, Neb., where he has resided for the past 30 years. Death was due to heart failure.

His body, accompanied by a nephew, Thomas Fountain, was brought to Lisbon, and was met at Chicago by James Edwards and two sisters. The funeral party was met at Youngstown by Gerald Eells, and the body was taken to the Eells funeral home where funeral services were held, with Dr. C. N. Church, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Lisbon, in charge. The body was buried in the Lisbon cemetery.

Birthday Party.

Mrs. Wm. C. Deville was tendered a birthday surprise at her home here when relatives from nearby towns invaded her home and from well filled baskets served a birthday dinner. She also received a number of gifts. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Speidel, of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Cope and son, Roger, of Winona, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynn of Hanoverton.

Plan To Slag Road.

Twenty cars of slag are to be spread on the Columbiana-New Springfield road through an agreement made with the county commissioners. The unloading and transportation contract has been awarded to Harvey Rapp of Columbiana.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Stimulate Glands of Stomach to Full Vitality

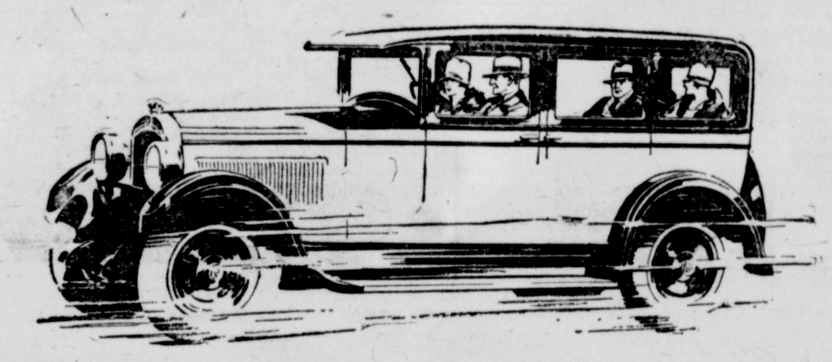
This Scientific Method Brings Quick Results.

If your weight is "off normal" it may well be that your food is not being properly digested.

Some of the glands of your mouth and stomach, or other vital organs may not be functioning properly. What you eat is not being turned into the real nourishment that your body needs. If you go on that way, you are endangering your whole future.

Act now to provide your digestive apparatus with the assistance it needs.

A remarkable stimulant-tonic has been devised for just such conditions as these. It is delightfully palatable and is prepared by an old Virginia concern in business for nearly a century. Druggists and physicians have come to know this stimulant as "Old Monticello Tonic." Get a bottle today from your druggist, take a small wineglass full before your next meal—see how much better you eat—feel the glow of stimulated functions throughout the body. A few days' treatment will bring a quick change in run-down conditions and overcome lack of energy.



Compare Its Value With All Sixes Near Its Price

However you judge closed car value—in exterior refinements—or in the more important attributes of fine performance and long life, you cannot close your eyes to the advantages of the new Hupmobile Six Sedan.

Here you will find beauty and luxury in generous measure. The new metal ball-back body gives a graceful silhouette that lifts this car above the commonplace. Upholstery is of genuine mohair, harmonizing in color with the finish of the body. Hardware is of the highest quality and the complete equipment leaves nothing to be desired.

Built to regular Hupmobile standards, for years recognized as better than average, this Sedan would rank as one of the foremost quality cars in America.

But Hupmobile goes 10% beyond—Hupmobile makes its quality of materials and workmanship 10 per cent finer than required.

While thus adding 10% to manufacturing costs, Hupmobile adds not one cent to its price. As a result, the Hupmobile Six is recognized far and wide as offering more quality, per dollar of purchase price, than any other Six on the market.

See this improved Sedan, drive it and realize its new ease of steering and control—and you'll have no other six at any price. We will gladly arrange a demonstration.

TUNNEY PLANS TRIP ABROAD NEXT SUMMER

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. — Prominent Americans who will sail for abroad early this summer are the captain of the Leviathan and James Joseph Tunney, the well known heavyweight champion. The latter informed the writer today that he is seriously considering offers for a theatrical and exhibition tour of Germany, England and France and is so enamored of the idea that he is dispatching his barrister, Dudley Field Malone, to the scene to discover what he may.

Dudley or Deadley, as the boys seem to know him best, will sail on Saturday and he may be relied upon to discover all, including the uncharted box office.

The champion's tentative plans were outlined to me in some detail just before he left today on another buck hunt through the west. This is done by tracking the wild and untrammeled buck to the house manager's safe and claiming it for your own. Mr. Tunney says Daniel Boone was a pretty good hunter, too.

Anyhow, the end of the march will bring the closed season; so Mr. Tunney would hie him elsewhere. His rather sketchy plans at this immature moment call for him to leave for abroad in April and return in June at which juncture it is expected it will be cauliflower time in pugilistica.

Tunney will begin active training then for the defense of his title against the accepted challenger and the party who thinks he won't be "right" for the big moment has a frayed cuff in his family closet.

"I'm not three pounds overweight right now," Tunney declared. "I weigh 190 to an ounce and, if the demand was made, I could enter the ring within four weeks fit and ready to fight as well as ever I did. But I'm taking no chances.

"Soon after the first week in June, I will leave for the woods with four or five sparring partners and, by easy stages, I will work my way to perfection in physical condition."

It had been said of Dempsey that he was "never out of condition" but by September 24 last there were at least 130,000 people who knew that was wrong. However, it really goes for Tunney. His average day is just a recital of what the well behaved man will do.

"I'm up by 7 o'clock and go through a series of calisthenics," he declared without shame. "After breakfast, I go for a long walk sometimes interspersed with occasional sprints. Then I appear in four or five shows a day at which my sparring exhibitions serve to keep my eye in trim.

"I have a light meal in the evening and usually indulge in crackers and milk just before retiring, which seldom is later than 11 o'clock."

It all sounds quite irritating to me. But, then, virtue is its own reward or something.

MYERS IS STILL MAT CHAMPION

CHICAGO, Jan. 25. — The world's middleweight wrestling crown still graced the brow of Johnny Myers today by virtue of his victory over Jim my Logas in a championship match here last night.

The bout went the limit of two hours. Myers pinned the challenger to the mat in one hour and 32 minutes with a toe hold. Then when the time limit expired the champion was awarded the decision. Three thousand fans attended.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

A very fine way of acquiring the knack of keeping the arms free and easy throughout the back swing—the arms being about the first to generate rigidity — is this: Withdraw the clubhead, then sweep the arms outward and upward freely and easily and without thought of pivot or anything else. In practice you can watch the arms do that. Seek to maintain a feeling of hand-control over the club all the way back. Do that a few times, being careful to keep your left hand closed against the shaft at the top, and keep the wrist action down during the back swing—that is, let the clubhead stay about even with the hands. After you do this a few times, try it next with the idea of looking at the ball and keeping your head still. Note, as you do, how easily and naturally you fall into correct position, with no straining and tugging at all. You can just as well make the swing be easy and graceful.

Movin' On

HANK SEVEREID, after spending the greater part of 16 campaigns as a big league catcher, was told to move on the other day by the New York Yankees. Being a 10-year man, Severeid received his unconditional release, which left him free to sign where he leased.

HANK SEVEREID

Severeid has done considerable "roaming" of recent years, although he resided for close to 12 years in one town—and with one ball club.

He broke into baseball in 1909 with the Burlington team, played the next season with Ottumawa in the Central Association and was bought at the end of that year by the Cinci Reds.

After two years and a half with the Redlegs he was sent to Louisville, partly because of his inability to hit. The St. Louis Browns, however, decided they could use him and grabbed him off at the close of the 1914 season. He caught 80 games the next season and from then on was the main backstop of the team until traded to Washington on June 18, 1925, for Mogridge and Hargrave in time to aid the Senators in capturing the A. L. pennant the second time.

Last season Manager Harris decided he could part with the veteran and let him go to New York. A short time after Hank joined the team Benny Bengough hurt his arm and Severeid stepped into the breach. Pat Collins was also nursing a bum wing at the time. Old Hank proceeded to catch good ball the remainder of the campaign and handled the catching in the world s series.

BEAGLE CLUB SEEKING SITE

Tract Near Newell Considered for Trials and Stocking.

Plans for the stocking of a 200-acre tract of land back of Newell, and the use of the tract as a site for field trials were discussed by members of the Ohio Valley Beagle club at their meeting last night in the Camarda building, Fifth street.

The site is not a certainty yet, club officials announced, although action has been taken toward the obtaining of four dozen Missouri cotton tail rabbits for stocking purposes.

The selection of the preserve site has been placed in the hands of a committee consisting of W. W. Beatty, Den Hull, M. Camarda and Grant Alvis.

Ban Leaves Chicago On Health Journey

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Ban Johnson, temporarily retired president of the American league, was absent from Chicago today. At his home it was stated he had gone to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, to spend several weeks in an effort to regain his health.

It was because of his ill-health that American league magnates, in session here last Sunday, voted their veteran prexy an indefinite "leave of absence" and installed Vice President Frank Navin of Detroit in the presidential chair.

Johnson has refused to make any statement since the Sunday meeting but speculation continues as to whether the former American league head will ever again assume leadership of the junior circuit. The belief is general that Johnson's health is such as to preclude the possibility of his ever again being a domina it figure in baseball.

CHRYSLERS LAND THREE STRAIGHT

Roselawn bowlers of the Liberty Duckpin league, failing to shake the hard luck jinx that trailed them down the first half of the league race, lost three in a row to the Chryslers last night, despite the fact that they shot a team score of 2,021.

They dropped the first match by 34 pins, the second by 13 and the third by five.

Alcock had high series score of 499 and Moffet rolled high game count of 188.

Western Conference Officials to Hold Meet Friday.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Reports that 1927 western conference football schedules would be "junked" at the joint meeting of Big Ten university presidents, faculty representatives, coaches, directors of athletics, and alumni, set for Friday of this week, were vigorously denied today by Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner.

Major Griffith said it would be impossible at this late date to alter the schedule, even if there were any excuse for so doing, owing to the fact that all open dates have been filled with non-conference games. Any change in the Big Ten schedule now would tend to "scramble" the schedules of nearly all other big schools, it was pointed out.

This meeting, Major Griffith explained, was called at the suggestion of coaches and athletic directors who met here last November to map out the 1927 schedule. It was seen at that time such a meeting was necessary in order to establish closer harmony between the Athletic and Academic Departments

The most important task facing the Friday gathering, according to the commissioner, is the mapping out of a standard program for the legitimate recruiting of athletes.

Elks Are Defeated By Salem; Damascus Trims Salineville

Two North County Squads Will Wind up Tonight, With Mullins at Columbiana and Quakers at Lisbon; Leaders Favored to Win.

POSSIBILITIES of a three way tie for first half championship honors in the Columbiana County Amateur Basketball League loomed strongly today as a result of the victory of the Salem Mullins Body five last night over the East Liverpool Elks, 38 to 32, on the Salem high school court.

The adage concerning the piece of pottery ware that went to the well once too often may be applicable in the case of last night's contest, the Elks' downfall coming after an unbroken string of 10 victories over all league opponents. Coming on the night following their strenuous battle with Columbiana here, the game probably proved a little too much for the lodgemen in face of the great game put up by Allen's north countians who played a far better brand of basketball than they displayed on the occasion of their appearance here.

While the Elks were losing at Salem, Damascus was winning from Salineville, 40 to 29, at Damascus, and driving ahead as a possibility in the pennant deadlock.

Whether the first half will wind up in a two-way tie of a three-cornered scrap depends upon the outcome of tonight's contests, the last of the half, when Salem will play at Columbiana and Damascus at Lisbon. Both Salem and Damascus are favored to win.

However, it is entirely possible that Manager Ray Adam may have an "ace in the hole" that may decide the issue in another namer, concerning which league officials are cognizant.

The third quarter in last night's clash did the damage after an even battle in the first two periods.

The Elks got off on their scoring drive before the Mullins passers, running up a lead of several points before the Salemites come through to tie it up at 9-9 as the first quarter neared an end. Another field goal apiece made the count 11-11 at the first intermission.

The Elks forged to the front again in the second quarter and managed to annex a five-point margin which they held when the half was called, the tally being 18-17 at this juncture.

Saler, in the third period, began to bang away at the hoop on long shot tries, with startling results. The Mullins quint in the first few minutes of the period, ran up a score of 28 to 21 and increased the margin to 32-23 when the one-minute rest period was called prior to the concluding lap. The Elks outscored their foes in the final quarter but the net results were insufficient to overcome the lead of the preceding stanza.

Wiffler, Salem high school's assistant athletic coach, who several weeks ago replaced "Red" Matticks at center, provided a far more capable man than Matticks. He led the Salem scorers with six field goals, the majority of them long chances.

It was up to Carl Wilson, Elks' forward, to pull the most sensational heave of the game. Wilson banged the ball almost three-quarters of the floor in the concluding quarter and chalked up two points on the attempt. Pusey and Wilde shared scoring honors for the losers, the former collecting five buckets and the latter four and two fouls. The two Salem forwards got through McConville and Anderson for only six two-pointers during the battle while Anderson came up to drop in three and several more close ones that rimmed the hoop and rolled out.

Approximately 125 East Liverpool court fans saw the game, going by special car and automobiles. They constituted a special cheering section, led by "Helmie" Davis.

Here's Speedy Relief From Bunions and Soft Corns

Mathews Cut Rate, Herche's Drug Store and J. D. Holloway Say Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflammation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your bunions may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields, or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing variose of swollen veins.

Mathews Cut Rate, Herche's Drug Store and J. D. Holloway and every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

MIDLAND HEALTH CLINIC LISTED

Children of the Midland school will be given the anti-diphtheria treatment at a clinic to be held Friday in the high school building. The campaign, which opened in Beaver county Monday is being conducted by Dr. J. O. Stevens, county medical director. He is being assisted by a group of nurses and physicians in towns where clinics are being held.

Dr. Stevens added that clinics will be conducted throughout the month. "Three inoculations are necessary," said Dr. Stevens. As many parents who have hesitated to give consent to the treatment are reassured by the fact that children immunized are not injured and request treatment at the second clinic, the clinics will be conducted for four weeks. No new treatments will be started after next week.
